PLOT TO MURDER MUSSOLINI BARED, EX-DEPUTY HELD

Police Arrest Socialist Zaniboni, His Secretary, and Gen. Capello in Alleged Conspiracy.

MASONIC LODGES ORDERED OCCUPIED

Authorities Were Informed in Advance of Attempt to Be Made on Premier's Life Yesterday.

By the Associated Press
ROME, Nov. 5.—It is semiofficially announced the former Socialist, Zaniboni, is under arrest on a charge of preparing an attempt against the life of Premier Mussolini.

Stefani, the semiofficial news agency, says the Government is strongly considering dissolution of the Unitarian Socialist party.

The Government also is said to have ordered the prefects immediately to occupy all the Masonic lodges subsidiary to the Grand Orient in Rome.

On several occasions recently police received information that an attempt was being prepared against the Premier. A few days ago they obtained confirmation of these reports and the added information that the attempt would be made during the course of yesterday's celebrations of the armistice of November 11.

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning the police entered a room in the Hotel Dragone, near the Chigi Palace, where the ministry of foreign affairs is situated, and surprised and arrested Zaniboni just as he was about to leave on his alleged mission.

Gen. Capello Arrested.
At the same time the authorities at Turin arrested Gen. Louis Capello, who was on a train, allegedly on his way out of the country. Both men are being held for the action of the courts.

It was announced later that Zaniboni's private secretary, who edited the Popolo Quaqua, was arrested.

The orders to occupy the Masonic lodges were sent to all the prefects in the kingdom. The Grand Orient is national Masonic headquarters and is directed by Domenico Torriani, Grand Master of the order in Italy. Capello also is a prominent Mason.

As soon as the arrests became known Signor Farinacci, secretary-general of the Fascist party, issued a manifesto ordering the Fascists throughout Italy to gather at their respective headquarters this evening to carry out demonstrations, rejoicing over the Premier's "escape from the assassin's bullet." Farinacci also ordered the Fascists to refrain from any attempts at reprisals.

Mussolini also has sent orders to the Prefects to take energetic measures to prevent reprisals.

Meeting Tonight.
Following Farinacci's orders, Mario Poeschi, secretary of the Fascist organization in Rome, has ordered all Fascists of the capital and its environs to congregate at 7 o'clock tonight in the Piazza Colonna, under the balcony of the Chigi Palace, the Premier's official residence, for a demonstration of thanksgiving that he has been spared.

Police are taking special measures to preserve order during this gathering.

The Premier has received many messages of felicitation, the first of which was that of King Victor Emmanuel, who was informed of the affair last night. Minister of the Interior Federzoni has returned to Rome, breaking a journey through Sicily, on account of the affair.

12 BRITISH COMMUNISTS HELD FOR TRIAL ON SEDITION CHARGE

George Bernard Shaw Furnishes $500 Bail for One of the Defendants.

CORINTH, Nov. 5.—Twelve leading British communists yesterday were held for trial on charges of sedition, conspiracy and violation of the incitement to mutiny act of 1797.

George Bernard Shaw, the playwright, attended the hearing and gave $100 bail ($500) for one of the men, as did the Countess of Warwick and others. When Shaw entered the witness box considerably amusement was caused by the court clerk's formal question: "Are you worth a hundred pounds?" Shaw replied.

Sir Henry Clesser, Labor barrister, who was Solicitor-General in Ramsay MacDonald's Government, defended some of the accused. He pointed out that the British Government itself had published in an official document a thesis on communism similar to those which the defendants are being prosecuted for circulating.

Opened by Coroner.

The deposit box was opened by Deputy Coroner Bond and trust officers of the bank, to see if its contents would throw light on the reason for death. It contained about $2000 in cash and $7000 or $8000 in Liberty Bonds, which will be turned over to the Public Administrator when an order is received from the Attorney-General. The Public Administrator filed the will for probate today.

The two brothers, who led quiet and secluded lives, died of fumes from a kitchen range every burner of which, including those of the oven, was turned on full.

Entrance to the flat was forced at 5 p. m., after Walter Himmer, who runs a confectionery, on the first floor, smelled gas and called a policeman. The fumes were so heavy that the police were driven back by the rush of gas from the door. When they entered they found the bed where Albert lay in his nightshirt with John beside him fully dressed.

Police believe it was either a suicide arrangement or that John turned on the gas while his brother slept. The only money in the flat was a 5-cent piece in a pocket of John's trousers, and an uncashed paycheck of the International Shoe Co. for $18 payable to him.

"Quiet Fellows," Says Friend.

The only acquaintance of the brothers to come forward is Edward T. Condon, of 3448 Winnebago street. He knew the Whiteheads when they were boys in the neighborhood of Ninth and Walnut streets, he told a Post-Dispatch reporter today.

"I saw them about once every five years, the last time about six weeks ago when they lived at 3019 Bailey avenue and were burying their sister from there," he said.

"Albert told me that he had been a letter carrier for a while and a number of years ago was Justice of the Peace at Spanish Lake. His brother, he said, was a clerk. They were quiet fellows who never mixed much with anybody and were thrifty in their manner of living."

Condon said he had never heard the brothers mention any relatives. On Benton street, neighbors said the brothers had lived there about a month, but never spoke to anyone, except a passing greeting.

The Coroner's Inquest will be held tomorrow. Meantime police are trying to learn more of the brothers.

Defense Attorney Indicates Plea in Behalf of Dr. Harold E. Blazer, 61, on Trial for Murder.

WOMAN, 32, COULD NOT WALK OR TALK

Physician, Expecting Own Death, Said to Have Feared She Would Be Left to Strangers.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 5.—The task of selecting a jury to decide whether a father should be punished because he put to death his mentally and physically deformed 32-year-old daughter, fearing he would die and leave her a burden to the community, is in progress at Littleton, a suburb. Dr. Harold E. Blazer, 61 years old, is charged with killing his daughter, Hazel, with poison last February.

Earl L. Medsker was excused from the panel today when he declared that for 20 years he had been an advocate of painlessly putting to death imbeciles and other irresponsibles. J. T. Wingfield was excused when he admitted that for 15 years he had harbored a prejudice against doctors and the medical profession. "I've had too much doctoring," he said.

Lewis de Riggs Mowry, chief of defense counsel, spent much time with each juror, endeavoring to determine their attitude toward his contention that the old-fashioned, kindly country physician was the victim of "psychical automatism."

Mowry will strive to prove to the jury that Dr. Blazer suffered a lapse of memory for a period of 48 hours before, during and after the girl died from chloroform and during which time he made three attempts to take his own life—first with the same saturated clothes, then with a 20-grain poison tablet, and finally with a razor blade that made a deep, jagged wound in his throat and missed the jugular vein by only one-eighth of an inch.

COULD NOT TALK OR WALK.

It is understood that Attorney Mowry plans to put the doctor on the stand in his own defense, to tell of the 32 long years of tender care he lavished upon his imbecile daughter, "the girl without a soul, who could neither talk nor walk, nor even take food until it had been thoroughly pre-masticated."

Charles Hardin, claim agent for the United Railways, asserted that Hazel made claim against his company for an injury at Twelfth and Pine streets, Aug. 9, under identical circumstances, with Sakals as witness.

Details of Bankers' Report on Causes of Collapse of Ferguson-McKinney Company

RECEIVER NAMED FOR BRENTWORTH CLOTHING CO.

Friendly Court Action a Sequel to the Failure of Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co.

As a sequel to the failure of the Ferguson-McKinney company, the Brentworth Clothing Co., manufacturers of men's apparel, with offices and factory at 508 Washington avenue, has gone into a friendly receivership.

The petition for receivership was filed yesterday by Ben Kranzberg, minority stockholder and executive of the firm and Circuit Judge Miller appointed as temporary receiver another minority stockholder, Joseph P. McGowan, who is secretary and treasurer. His bond was fixed at $100,000.

McGowan said today the company is solvent and has more than enough assets to pay creditors in full if forced to liquidate. He does not expect liquidation will be necessary, and is continuing operations.

By an order of Judge Miller, issued today, the continued employment of Kranzberg as superintendent and manager at 508 a month, and Edward Werner as sales manager at $500 a month, and of 14 salesmen was authorized.

An amended petition filed today by Jerome F. Duggan, attorney for McGowan and Kranzberg, explains a receivership was decided upon after a local bank had impounded a deposit of the company to offset partially a note now due.

Outstanding liabilities of the company shown by an audit as of Sept. 30, are reported in the petition as approximately $14,699.82, as against assets of $15,394.02.

The Brentworth Co. was incorporated in Missouri in 1923, after purchasing the assets of the Levy-Kranzberg Clothing Co. and the Kenilworth branch of the Alligator Clothing Co. It has an authorized capital stock of $600,000, with authority to issue 24,000 shares of no par value stock, of which there is outstanding 11,340 shares.

David M. Flournoy, president of the firm, appears on its books as trustee for $240 shares of the $11.40. The petition states that the stock so held by Flournoy has been endorsed by him to other partners, and is listed as an asset of the bankrupt Ferguson-McKinney company.

It now develops that Flournoy was trustee for Forrest Ferguson, president of the Ferguson-McKinney company, and that Ferguson, in turning over all his personal assets to creditors of his company included the Brentworth stock, which placed the Brentworth firm in the embarrassing position of having its stock control in the hands of Ferguson-McKinney creditors. The receivership has relieved this situation somewhat.

The only stockholders of record besides Flournoy are Medowwan, with 252 shares, and Kranzberg with 124. At a book value of $18 a share, the $240 shares assigned to Ferguson-McKinney creditors would be worth more than $45,000.

The Brentworth committee, as one of the sales agencies for the Alligator Clothing Co. and has a claim against the Alligator company on that account. Ferguson is president of the Alligator company. Flournoy is vice president and general manager, and Alfred Baggott is secretary-treasurer. Baggott also is secretary of Ferguson-McKinney.

The Alligator factory has been working overtime to keep up with the demand for colored rain slickers. Virtually all the stock is held by the Ferguson-McKinney Co., and thus turned over to Ferguson-McKinney creditors.

Flournoy managed the Alligator plant and McLean did the same for the Brentworth, but they took orders from Ferguson. It was Ferguson's custom to meet at least once a week with these two to discuss business.

The petition for receivership for the Brentworth company stated the listing of its stock as an asset of the bankrupt Ferguson-McKinney firm "has endangered the credit of the defendant company (Brentworth) to such an extent that said company cannot go on under present and existing conditions without financial ruin." It was further stated that the Brentworth company "is not involved in any of the speculations, false statements or other matters alleged to have been committed by the bankrupt company and its officers, to wit, the Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co."

The Brentworth committee has on hand indicates that the profits of the company had been padded to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars; that instead of profits, carmen were aware the Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co. had large losses, which losses are now admitted by Mr. Ferguson and various officers.

It will be noted in the above letter transmitted by the company, that the Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co. showed a net income for the period Feb. 28, 1925, of $180,523.40, out of which they paid reserves for taxes $28,000 and dividends $8,750.

We ascertained by an inspection of the books of the Carleton-Ferguson Co. and the Carleton Dry Goods Co. and from information of the salesmen of these companies and the Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co. that the Carleton-Ferguson Co. with money obtained from the Carleton Dry Goods Co. had at various periods between Sept. 11, 1924 and Feb. 2, 1925, advanced to the Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co. $150,000, and $100,000 to the Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co. in the embarrassing position of having its stock control in the hands of Ferguson-McKinney creditors. The receivership has relieved this situation somewhat.

The only stockholders of record besides Flournoy are Medowwan, with 252 shares, and Kranzberg with 124. At a book value of $18 a share, the $240 shares assigned to Ferguson-McKinney creditors would be worth more than $45,000.

Kinney Company & S. Board Met PLAN TO DISBAND ONLY 11 TIMES IN BEFORE ST. LOUIS CLUB A 47-YEAR PERIOD

No Action Taken but Assessment of $1000 Against Members Has Been Withdrawn.

Minutes of Trustees' Sessions Are Introduced at Hearing in Ouster Proceedings.

BRIGGS DOMINATED MEDICAL COLLEGE

By-Laws Show Who Got Profits Though School Was Chartered as Non-Profit-Sharing.

Only 11 meetings of the board of trustees of the St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons were held in 47 years, according to records introduced today in a quo warrant hearing before Special Commissioner Bean in the Boatmen's Bank Building.

The State, in seeking to revoke the charter of the school, is stressing the prominence of Dr. Waldo Briggs, owner and former dean, in the affairs of the school, which has been operating under a pro forma decree as a charitable and benevolent institution.

There was no blush of shame as he told the details of his nefarious transactions, no traces of embarrassment as he related how he had honestly qualified himself for a high profession and then prostituted it for money.

Only 11 meetings. Between 1869 and 1916 only 11 trustee meetings are recorded. Lille also read an extract from by-laws enacted in 1894, in which it was provided that profits from the operation of the school might be given "to those who by their labor have contributed either to the establishment of the school or toward its prospective maintenance."

There was a noticeable decline in membership after the fire destroyed the club of a home.

New Site Not Bought.

It was learned today that the club had not bought the Kingshighway lot outright, but that a partial purchase of it had been made in his own name by M. E. Singleton, second vice president and chairman of the Building Committee. Singleton would not say how much he had paid down, but another member, J. E. Singleton, had paid $10,000 and had offered to be glad to retain the lot if the club did not wish to take it over.

There is said to be some doubt as to legal phases of the new building plan. Members of the club believe they will be asked to decide what its future shall be.

WIDOW TELLS OF ELOPEMENT FUND

Story of Plot to Run Away
With Friend of Husband Comes Out After Murder.

By the Associated Press.
NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 5.—William J. Clark's best friend is in jail at Hillside, N. J., on suspicion of murdering him with a hammer, and Clark's young widow has admitted, police say, that she and the friend had a $2000 "elopement fund" on deposit in a Newark savings bank.

Clark, a klansman and a gold-beater employed by jewelers, died yesterday after being beaten on the head at his garage with a stone mason's hammer. A few hours before the attack, according to Mrs. Clark's signed statement as given out by police, she had promised the friend, an unemployed, young iron worker named Joseph H. Cowen, to follow him next week to Florida.

Refused to Run Away.
"He begged me to run away with him," police say Mrs. Clark told them, "but I refused more than once. He was at the garage back of the house working on his car until about 5 p. m. Monday and begged me to go to Miami with him that night. More to stop his nagging than anything else, I half promised to follow him next week."

She said, according to Hillside police, that Cowen had given her $500 of the $2000.

"He did give her money," Cowen is quoted as saying. "But it was only to pay for me. I was only a friend of the family." He said there was no talk of an elopement.

Cowen has been a jewelry salesman and insurance agent. He was arrested four years ago charged with abandoning his wife and four-year-old daughter, and is under bond to give them $5 a week.

Finger Prints on Hammer.

Finger prints on a hammer found near the garage are being examined, but police say they expect little to come of the examination as the hammer had been handled by several persons.

Clark was attacked when he got out of his automobile to open his garage door after spending Monday evening with friends. Mrs. Clark and her mother were in the car at the time. They did not see Clark's assailant, they say. They dragged him into the house and got a doctor. The doctor said Clark had been struck four times, but his skull was not fractured.

Since Clark's assailant, a man's father, has asked police protection for his son's funeral today, police say young Clark was a Ku Klux Klansman and Klansmen are expected to attend the funeral, but there have been other Klan funerals in Hillside with no attending disorders.

LAWYERS IN LONG ARGUMENT
OVER COMMA IN INJUNCTION

Court Finally Orders Disputed
Punctuation Mark Stricken
From Decree.

The punctuation of a final decree granting the Curlee Clothing Co., 1001 Washington avenue, a permanent injunction against the local union of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America caused a lengthy argument by counsel for both sides in Federal Court yesterday, and resulted finally in Federal Judge Davis ordering a comma stricken from the decree.

The objectionable comma had been placed in the decree by attorneys for the Curlee company between "Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union" and "Local Union No. 1." Luther Ely Smith, representing the union, argued that the comma caused the injunction to be directed against both the national organization of clothing workers and the local union, whereas the plea for the order had been directed only against the local body. The comma was ordered stricken from the decree by Judge Davis following considerable discussion.

Under the injunction, a result of the strike directed against the Curlee company last spring, and summer by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' organization, the local union of the body is prevented permanently under penalty of prosecution for contempt of the court's order, from interfering, through picketing or other means, with the business of the Curlee company. The strike was called off several months ago by the national officers of the union after an effort to force officials of the Curlee concern to agree to the organization of the firm's employees failed.

$300,000,000 CUT
IN TAXES AGREED ON

Total Tentatively Fixed by House Committee Was Suggested by Mellon.

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—A tentative limit of $300,000,000 as the total amount of the forthcoming tax reduction was determined upon today by the House Ways and Means Committee.

This is the figure set by Sec. Mellon. It was agreed to by the committee after it had gone over estimates of Government expenses for the next fiscal year with Director of the budget.

Although some members favored a greater reduction, Director of the budget there was little likelihood of a Treasury surplus exceeding $300,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year.

Chairman Greene, announcing the committee's decision, said it was not absolutely binding and indicated the limit might be exceeded slightly if necessary to accomplish the widespread tax revision desired by the committee.

With its goal fixed, the committee began consideration of new rate schedules, taking up first the income taxes, considered the heart of revenue law. The chairman predicted an early decision on income schedules.

DR. ADCOX'S STORY OF TEN YEARS IN HELPING MAKE DOCTORS

now and then," he observed.

Sometimes, it appeared from Adcox's testimony on cross-examination, there was some hurry on the part of applicants to arrange for credentials and get back to their homes in other cities. This developed when Attorney Coffman asked Adcox if he hadn't made it a practice to help bogus physicians to get their photographs on the class picture as further evidence that they had graduated.

"I never did that," was the reply. "I did go with them to the photographs, but not intentionally, however. Now and then one of these hurry-up fellows would come into town and want to catch the next train back home. He'd want to get in on the class picture. Sometimes I would show fellows like that the way to the photographer's."

"When did Dr. Briggs discover that you were giving him fake credentials?" Coffman asked.

"Discover?" the witness snorted. "He didn't need to discover."

" Didn't the money paid by students like Draser go into your pocket?" "Sure it did. Into my pocket and Dr. Briggs'."

Unruffled by Questions.

Coffman frequently prodded Adcox with barbed questions about his record, but the convicted physician admitted Coffman's every charge with unflinched equanimity and frequently made additions to his replies that obviously nettled Dr. Briggs' attorney.

"Confine yourself to answering the questions I ask," Coffman admonished on one occasion. "Very well, Your Honor," the witness replied ironically.

Coffman's chief aim in cross-examination appeared to be to show that Dr. Briggs was easily imposed upon by his friends and employees. Adcox was willing to admit that Dr. Briggs was of a trusting nature but he was emphatic in repeating his statement that "Briggs knew what was going on as far as I was concerned."

Dr. Briggs has previously stated that he may have signed fraudulent diplomas set before him by other officers of the school, explaining that he trusted much to his assistants. Yesterday Adcox was asked if Dr. Briggs' eyesight was not bad. He replied that it was. He admitted that perhaps Briggs did not closely inspect the diplomas as he signed them each commencement week.

"Why are you testifying?" Coffman asked. "What is your object in coming here?"

"I feel that I should," Adcox said steadily. "I've wanted to clear this up for a long time. I wanted to tell it all while I was on trial and I'm glad I've finally got around to it."

Admit His Guilt.

"And you're willing to admit you're guilty of all these crimes?"

"I'm guilty of all these things I've told you about. You can't get away from that."

As to Dr. Briggs himself, Adcox was emphatic in his statement that he had no bitterness toward the head of the medical school which has been under fire for 10 years by the local, State and national medical associations and other agencies, as a diploma factory.

"Dr. Briggs and I have been friends," Adcox said, as he left the stand. "I have nothing but the kindest feeling for him. I wish him well."

The aged surgeon did not raise his head from his breast as Adcox pushed back his chair and left the table.

GEM THIEVES' NEMESIS, A.R. SHATTUCK, IS DEAD

Retired Banker Caused Round-up of Mourey Gang of Paris Apaches.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Alfred R. Shattuck, retired banker of New York, died at his villa, The Mount, on the north shore of Laurel Lake, near Lenox, Mass., late yesterday. Shattuck and his wife resided at 19 Washington Square, north. Shattuck remembered the sedate gentility of the old neighborhood. Their coach horses toiled down the avenue many a day and twinkled to the red brick front of No. 19.

Shattuck sat in his library on an upper floor, waiting for the dinner gong one Sunday in April, 1922. There were six servants below. Mrs. Shattuck was dressing. Down in the cellar four men from the Apache gang of Paris lay hiding. They had crept in through a coal chute before daybreak. The ringleader was Gabriele Mourey, former butler in the house. There were also Frank Mourey, known as "The Jockey," who walked with a limp; Eugene Diessel, fresh out of the Black Quarter, and Maurice Bagnoli.

The gong struck noon. Shattuck turned another leaf. Mrs. Shattuck picked up a set of diamond earrings, old heirlooms. Gems worth $100,000 flashed in her jewel case on the table.

Driven Into Trap.

Out of the cellar crept Mourey and his men. The servants hurried in a panic. They rounded up the Shattucks. Mrs. Shattuck dropped her jewels.

Driven down into the subterranean wine vaults the women servants began to cry. Mrs. Shattuck pleaded. Martel showed his teeth and swore. The Apaches locked Shattuck and his wife behind the heavy doors of the old-fashioned vault.

The banker spent the worst hour of his life, working frantically in the dark with a penknife, gasping for air in the unventilated hole. Finally he drew the tumblers of the lock and staggered out. The house was turned upside down. Running out, he surprised the robbers still at work and they took to their heels.

One man was caught. Finally another. Then began Shattuck's international hunt for the men who had virtually ignored his wife's pleadings and made off with $80,000 worth of jewels.

Scotland Yard got busy. The Paris Prefecture was combed under wood dress. Police departments of Port Said and Ickeburg were wired for details. Bombay wired for Berlin records. Arrests were made on suspicion over half the globe. Police trailed men in Singapore and Hongkong and Nagasaki, French, German, Belgian and Austrian detectives vied for the heavy rewards. More than $20,000 was offered for Martel alone, for Martel had reviled Mrs. Shattuck.

Net Closes In.

For more than two years the net closed in. Diessel and Bagnoli went to Sing Sing for 20 years apiece. Mourey was taken in Paris. Martel was brought back in irons.

A year ago, when Mourey was sentenced to die by a Paris court, Shattuck worked for clemency as strenuously as he had worked for justice. He sought out United States Ambassador Herkirk. He wrote the President of France. And Mourey's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Then and only then, his work completed, Shattuck came home and resumed reading his book, just where the Apaches interrupted him.

Firm Partners in Deal.

BRESLAU, Germany, Nov. 5.—W. A. Harriman & Co. of New York and the Anaconda Copper Mining Co. of Montana have jointly taken over the Polish holdings of the Georg von Giesche's Heirs Mining Co., which has been in financial straits. Under the terms of the agreement, a new American corporation is to be formed in which the Harriman and Anaconda interests will control a majority of the stock, the Giesche heirs to receive the balance. In addition to paying a purchase price, the amount of which is not made public, Harriman and Anaconda agree to help bear a loss for the German holdings of the Giesche company, consisting largely of zinc mines.

The Giesche concern is the oldest mining company in Germany.

WOMAN STRUCK BY AUTO, DRIVER OF WHICH FLED, DIES

Mrs. Kate Wahl Was Run Down on Oct. 9 by Car at Michigan Avenue and Utah Street.

DEAD.
Mrs. Kate Wahl, 69 years old, of 3003 Minnesota avenue.

Cephas L. Lucas, 61, of 905 Market street.

The death of Mrs. Kate Wahl at the city hospital late yesterday caused the police to resume their search today for the driver of a dilapidated Ford touring car which passed an automatic stop signal and ran her down at Michigan avenue and Utah street, Oct. 9.

The driver, according to witnesses, continued on and turned into an alley as he switched off his lights. Flight from the scene of an accident is a felony.

Mrs. Wahl, who was 69 years old, lived with a daughter, Mrs. Louis Hamer, 3003 Minnesota avenue. She was walking home after a visit to her son, Carl Wahl, at 3219 Potomac street. She was crossing Michigan avenue south to north, when the automobile moving south turned west into Utah and knocked her down. It was occupied by two young men.

Fred Lanphere of 2011 Pestalozzi street, a messenger boy, ran after the car and saw it turn into an alley a half-block west. No further trace of it was found. Mrs. Wahl suffered fractures of the skull and left leg.

Policemen were unable to ascertain the license number of the machine, but they believe that it belonged in the neighborhood because the driver apparently was familiar with the alleys.

Boy, 10, on Bicycle, Injured When Hit by Truck.

Arthur Froeckmann Jr., 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Froeckmann of 4227 Gannett street, was seriously injured this morning when he was struck by a Natzger Bakery Co. truck driven by William Palfmeyer, 4132 Natural Park avenue. He was taken to City Hospital, where it was said he suffered fractured ribs and a possible fracture of the skull. The boy was riding on his bicycle south on Grand boulevard when struck by the truck at Cherokee street.

Truck Driver Is Arrested After Man Is Run Down.

Fred Simpson, 27, 1453 St. Louis avenue, was run down by an east-bound truck on Cass Avenue at Broadway at 5:30 this morning. The driver of the truck did not stop after hitting Simpson, but police, tracing a license number given them by the injured man, arrested George Mercurio, 23, 1185 North Ninth street, who denied driving or owning the truck that struck Simpson. At City Hospital, Simpson was found to be suffering from contusions of the chest and internal injuries. Mercurio was released on bond.

Salesman Seriously Injured When Struck by Automobile.

A machine driven by John Clark, 3866 De Tonty street, struck and seriously injured August Moesch, a salesman, residing at 1828 Lawrence street, at 11:15 this morning. Clark was driving east on Shaw avenue, and in front of 3862 his automobile struck Moesch, who suffered lacerations of the scalp and a probable skull fracture.

Man, 61, Struck by Auto Truck.

Dies of Injuries.

Cephas L. Lucas, 61, years old, who lived at the Pacific Hotel, 905 Market street, died early today of skull fracture suffered at noon yesterday when he was struck by a one-ton truck as he crossed Sixth street at Walnut.

The driver, Santo Catanzaro, 19, of 820 North Ninth street, said Lucas ran through the traffic directly in front of the truck.

Lucas' death was the 146th motor vehicle fatality of this year, compared to 153 in the same period of 1924.

FUNERAL CORTEGE NOT NUISANCE COURT HOLDS

Circuit Judge Miller Rules on Point in Hearing Suit Against Undertaker.

Funeral processions are not nuisances and should not have a depressing effect on the minds of children or grown-ups, Circuit Judge Miller held today, in excluding certain testimony of witnesses for property owners in the 3100 block of Lafayette avenue, on a petition for an injunction to restrain Mrs. Elizabeth Schnur, a widow, from opening undertaking parlors at 3125 Lafayette avenue.

"Mortality is the common debt of man and death is not improper," Judge Miller said from the bench, after he had ordered struck out the testimony of witnesses that funeral processions had a depressing effect on the minds of persons, particularly children.

The property owners are seeking the injunction on the grounds that a funeral parlor is a nuisance. There are no restrictions against undertaking establishments in that vicinity although the plaintiffs contend that it is a residential section. Mrs. Schnur, who now operates the E. J. Schnur Undertaking Co., 2652 Chouteau avenue, has denied that it is strictly a residential neighborhood, pointing out that another undertaking establishment is located at 3035 Lafayette avenue.

Dormitories of the Jewish Orphanage Home, 3117 Lafayette avenue, extend to within 20 feet of the proposed undertaking parlors and Superintendent Louis Gormann of the home testified that "would be possible for the children to see the caskets in the funeral parlors if the windows were not adequately curtained." His testimony was excluded, however, as no positive evidence that this would be possible was offered.

If it were possible for the children to see the caskets it would have a "very depressing effect" upon them, Dr. James F. McPadden, a nerve specialist, testified. Dr. Edward E. Helpel testified that it is possible for contagious diseases to be carried from bodies of dead persons. He admitted, however, that it is rather difficult for diseases to be spread in this manner.

Called as a witness for the plaintiffs, Mrs. Schnur described the arrangement she had planned for the funeral parlors. The embalming room would be in the basement, preventing the spread of disagreeable odors, and the quarters would be sufficiently adequate to house all mourners, she averred.

PUBLIC SAFETY DIRECTOR SHOWS SAVING OF $25,418

Expenses Cut by Reducing Number of Employees; Inspection Fees Increase Revenue.

Director of Public Safety Brod today reported that receipts and expenditures of his department for the first six months of this fiscal year, as compared to the corresponding period of last year, showed an increase in receipts of $15,233.95, and a decrease in expenses of $10,159.82, making a net gain of $5,074.17.

Expenses were cut by reducing the number of employees, particularly janitors, at the City Hall and Municipal Courts building.

The increase in revenue was largely due to increased plumbing and building inspection fees, following an increase of more than $12,000,000 in the estimated cost of buildings, as compared to last year.

Total receipts for the period amounted to $125,252.15, compared to $119,993.21 last year. Expenses were $88,463.07, compared to $88,422.89 before.

Revenue in the building division increased from $86,255.70 to $78,418.80, in the plumbing division from $14,312 to $20,758.75, and weights and measures department from $10,987.50 to $11,669.65. Revenue in the boiler and elevator division decreased from $26,458 to $22,109. Foot troubles are universal. Government records show that 7 out of every 10 adult people have some form of foot trouble. You are probably a victim of foot trouble yourself. It may be only a corn, a callous, a bunion; or it may be some more serious trouble such as weak and broken-down arches. You might not know the nature of your trouble but you do know that your feet ache, pain, and tire easily.

Foot Comfort Expert Here
Come to our Foot Comfort Department Friday or Saturday and have an examination, without charge, by the Special Demonstrator from The Scholl Mfg. Co. This is an opportunity that every foot sufferer should grasp.

A PEDO-GRAF PICTURE
In a few seconds' time, without removing the hose, the foot expert can make a photographic print of your foot that positively shows if you do have foot troubles and to what stage the trouble has progressed. This service is without charge and places you under no obligation.

Gives Views on Labor

BRITISH LABOR CHIEF TO SPEAK HERE TONIGHT

Albert A. Purcell, Member of Parliament, Denies Advocating Russian Methods.

The impression that he is advocating the adoption in full of Russian trade union methods in the United States and England was vigorously resented by Albert A. Purcell, a member of the British Parliament and president of the International Federation of Trades Unions, who is in St. Louis today.

Purcell is making a tour of important labor centers and will speak at 8 o'clock tonight at Sheldon Memorial Auditorium, 3648 Washington Boulevard, on "World Trades Union Unity." The meeting is under the auspices of a special committee of trade unionists of St. Louis. Charles Blome, president of the Metal Trades Council of this city, is secretary of the special committee.

Purcell, at the convention of the American Federation of Labor in Atlantic City, expressed the hope that America would establish close relationship with the Russian labor movement. This drew a heated statement from President William Green of the American Federation of Labor that American labor would never affiliate with the Russian labor movement. David Krejci, secretary of the Central Trades and Labor Union, told the Post-Dispatch today that that organization had nothing to do with the arrangements for Purcell's address.

1,300,000 Idle in England.

Speaking of the unemployment situation in England, Purcell declared that there are now 1,300,000 registered unemployed laborers in that country.

"This condition," he declared, "is accentuated by the aftermath of the war, the disturbed state of Europe, together with the want of complete trading relationships with Russia and the Near East."

Regarding the Russian labor movement, Purcell said: "America could organize itself for the purpose of controlling industry and exploiting all the natural resources for the benefit of the community as a whole. I am not advocating adoption of all the fundamentals of the Russian labor party, but I believe there is a great deal of good to be derived from Russia by copying the best of its experiments. I am by no means advocating Communism."

Permanent World Peace.

"The British trade union movement is most anxious to cultivate permanent world peace and understanding by the inclusion of the Russian trade union movement, together with every other trade union movement in the world, into a gigantic world trade union organization as the sole security for peace throughout the world."

Purcell will leave for Chicago immediately after his address tonight. He will sail on Nov. 18 for Amsterdam to attend the general convention of the International Federation of Trade Unions.

T. P. Lewis of Chicago is accompanying Purcell on his tour, his first in this country.

GREATEST BOOM MARKET ON WALL STREET IN NINE YEARS

Total sales for the Day Are Calculated at 2,938,100 shares;

High Levels Attained.

Spots to the Bourse.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—With public buying the largest of the present upward movement and with United States Steel common, which ordinarily fluctuates within a one or two-point range, jumping more than five points to 134½, Wall Street experienced yesterday its greatest boom stock market in nine years.

Total sales were calculated at 2,938,100 shares, compared with 2,684,907, the previous high mark for the year, established Oct. 16.

It was the biggest turnover since the famous "three-million-share" day which followed the "leak" on President Wilson's peace note in December, 1916. That day 3,390,000 shares changed hands.

The record market for all time took place May 9, 1901, when the Northern Pacific panic caused approximately 3,336,000 to be bought and sold. Brokers predicted last night that new peaks would be established before the present speculative frenzy is exhausted. Each day brings more speculators into the market who buy everything in sight regardless of fundamentals.

Averages of 20 leading railroad and 20 leading industrial stocks attained the highest levels in history yesterday with more than 40 individual issues smashing their previous high prices for the year. The advance was by no means uniform as several substantial losses were scattered in the list.

United States Steel established the highest quotation since 1917.

Our New Store

38 years of fair dealing and successful merchandising in high quality leather goods has forced us to seek larger quarters. So on November 18th we will open a new store at 510-12 St. Charles street (three doors west of Broadway), and with three times the floor space we now occupy.

The Eighth street store will be continued to take care of our great holiday business. But when our lease expires on that street, we will merge into the St. Charles street store, making it one of the finest umbrella and leather goods stores in the city.

Secrecy of Fact.

"Old Jugoslavia" Soviets recognize the special importance of Italian interests and no-tend to allow these interests free and full development without imposing on Italy their own political views.

Both agree not to publish the treaty and not to show it to any public institution of their respective states.

The treaty is signed for the Italian government by Gen. Cavallotti, Gen. Douhet and Col. Margheri.
For the Soviets it is signed by Admiral Rehrensdorff, Gen. Guttie,
Gen. Slatinski and Jurenoff, Republian Ambassador at Rome.

The importance of the clauses is obvious, for they allow the Soviets to deal with Rumania and probably get back Bessarabia, while they give Italy a free hand should Mussolini find he must gain fresh laurels by attacking Jugoslavia.

The curious thing is that the treaty is signed with the very Soviet whose Red propaganda in other countries cause some die-hard Conservatives to sigh for a Mussolini to help them.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the welfare of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

Improvement of Utah Street.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I READ with great interest the article I signed "Safety First" concerning the traffic on Utah street between Grand and Gustine. Since it is true that trucks of all kinds pass through there, what objection can there be to letting people pass on street cars or busses? The street is going to be made. Let it be made strong enough, so houses won't be shaken. Anyway, there won't be more vibration than from the immense trucks that go nearer the houses than a car, because trucks would be put in center without overhead wires.

Some time ago when the question of running a car through this widest street in Tower Grove Heights was discussed, instead of on Humphrey, one of the narrowest, the whole project was dropped, one reason being the restriction on Utah. That is changed now. The second block west of Grand has flats, and, according to an announcement in your paper, there will be a library in the first block, corner of Grand, in addition to the traffic situation.

It is logical and necessary that street cars pass there, so people can easily reach the library from points east and west without transferring by round-about routes. A car line the whole length of Utah would relieve congestion on Cherokee cars, to reach which people have to walk many blocks, and would break the isolation of a large part of the district where there are no east and west cars. Many people live on Broadway, near the end of Utah. A car line on the street from this district, as far as possible would serve a valuable end. I.e., generally much-needed passenger service and as a result make the proposed library easily accessible.

PROGRESSIVE CITIZEN.

A Word From Walnut Park.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I reply to "Booster of Busses." I can't agree with him. I live in Walnut Park, eight blocks from a street car, and one-half block from the bus. I have tried to use the bus to go to work several times, but the result of long waits at transfer points and the motto of a "seat for every passenger" the best time that I could make was one hour and 15 minutes, as compared to 35 minutes on a street car.

Now, as to picking like sardines, that is not the fault of the United Railways, for you do not have to get on the car if it is crowded; you can stand and wait for a car with an empty seat the same as the bus makes you do, and if the United Railways was to adopt that slogan and refuse to take passengers if there were no more seats, you would be the first to make a complaint and it would take all night to get the people home. Now as for comfort while riding, there is no comparison; the street car wins all the way.

The busses may be all right if you don't have to transfer, and then it is nothing unusual to wait 20 minutes for a bus. I'm in favor of a United Railways bus but this way so we can transfer to the most reliable service—the United Railways.

U. R. WRONG.

The One-Man Cars.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I seem to me that in the past the United Railways were always posting cards in the front of the cars advertising "Safety first." These new one-man cars, which have lately installed, are certainly a step in the right direction, I think.

I have had occasion to ride in these cars quite frequently, and to the best of my knowledge a man who makes change with his right hand and runs a car with his left, cannot do either one just right. There is much talk about the one-armed auto driver, but what about the one-armed street car driver? He is much the same, the only difference being that his right arm and hand are being used for making change and issuing transfers instead of having it around some pretty girl.

There are a few accidents and law suits on their hands the United Railways will wake up to the fact that it will be cheaper to hire more men than to pay the other way. SAFETY FIRST.

Booster for Busses Answered.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MY letter was not unfair, but stated just the truth as I see it. Anything that starts or stops will jar you. If you ride automobiles you will agree to it. Street cars will always be crowded for the short time it takes to work and come home. It is impossible any other way. United Railways do not pack people like sardines; people do that themselves. Observe a blockade, you will see four or five cars close together. The first would be "packed," second less crowded, third almost empty, fourth empty. People there get their share, where the contrary happens.

I repeat, if everybody had a seat on the street car, "like your bus," how long would it take you to get home? I am not a street car booster but a square deal booster.

THE GERMAN CRISIS.

The German Government has made clear the conditions under which the treaties of Locarno will be submitted to the Reichstag for ratification. After a Government conference, called by Chancellor Luther for the purpose, it is announced that the treaties will not be submitted to the Reichstag until there are proofs that the allies will carry out their obligations with regard to the occupation of the Rhineland and the evacuation of Cologne.

There is no ground for cavil at this attitude of the German Government. It is imperative that all the nations that participate in the treaties shall prove good faith, which is the essence of the agreements. The validity of the agreements hangs on the good faith of the signatory Powers, and unless it is demonstrated at the very beginning, the object of the treaties will be defeated.

Good faith on the part of the allies is particularly necessary in the situation of the German Government, which is critical. It is dependent upon a coalition of parties. It has no assured majority in the Reichstag. It proposed the Locarno conference and undertook to negotiate the treaties, and having succeeded in arranging satisfactory treaties its good faith with the German people is staked upon the good faith of the allies in carrying out their part of the agreement. Their good faith must be demonstrated in order that Chancellor Luther may obtain the support of a majority of the Reichstag in ratifying the treaties.

On the other hand, in order to demonstrate her own good faith and the will of the German people to co-operate with the allies in maintaining peace and stability in Europe, Germany must perform her part in contributing to the success of the treaties. The first happening in the German Cabinet after the Locarno conference was not heartening. The withdrawal of the three Nationalist members of the Cabinet created a precarious situation. That the Nationalists, who were the original supporters of President von Hindenburg, and whose candidate he was, should withdraw from the Government when as Chancellor Luther aptly said, the destiny of Germany was at stake, seems incredible. It was a blow at the Government and at its efforts to place Germany on an equality with the leading nations of Europe, but the blow was not deadly. There is gratifying evidence that the Socialists, who are in accord with the purpose of the Government in arranging the Locarno treaties, and other middle parties, will support Luther and Stresemann in the forming of a working coalition to ratify the treaties, assuming that proofs of the allies' good faith are forthcoming.

We must appeal to reason, intelligence and common sense to offset this condition. We must hark back to the wisdom of the fathers of the country who came to this new continent expressly to seek a refuge from the religious persecution which was drenching the Old World with blood and misery. We must repeat that religious liberty is necessary to the salvation of any country with so many creeds, sects and religions. It is necessary to the perpetuation of free constitutional government.

SCOTCH IT.

The wave of religious bigotry which is sweeping the country was especially evident at Tuesday's elections. This monster, which usually works furiously and under cover, has come brazenly into the open with its appeals to hatred and intolerance.

In Detroit the mayoralty election was frankly fought and decided on a religious issue. In Louisville the Democratic candidate was forced to resign two days before the election upon the discovery that he had once been a member of the Klan. In Virginia there was the usual Democratic landslide, except in one case where a Republican received many votes simply because his opponent happened to be a Catholic. In New Jersey, Indianapolis, Buffalo and Boston the religious affiliations of the candidates were important, if not determining, factors in the final result.

These symptoms are far from being isolated ones. The religious issue elevated "Ma" Ferguson to the gubernatorial chair of Texas. It entered the Democratic national convention, precipitated wild scenes and ruined the chances of the party for victory. It elected Ed Jackson Governor of Indiana and determined the successor to the late Senator Ralston. Few campaigns in the past few years, no matter in what part of the country, have been free of the ugly trace of religious bigotry.

In the history of the world perhaps nothing has caused more bloodshed and more misery than religious controversies. Nothing is more futile, senseless and savage than religious hatred. Nothing is more foreign to the real spirit of the Christian religion. Yet, with the lessons of history before us, with the bloody record of massacres, burnings, murders, riots and tortures of religious persecution, with the certain knowledge of the uselessness of religious argument, this country is plunged into a nation-wide religious squabble which, unless checked, is destined to have disastrous results.

We must appeal to reason, intelligence and common sense to offset this condition. We must hark back to the wisdom of the fathers of the country who came to this new continent expressly to seek a refuge from the religious persecution which was drenching the Old World with blood and misery. We must repeat that religious liberty is necessary to the salvation of any country with so many creeds, sects and religions. It is necessary to the perpetuation of free constitutional government.

THE RICH MAN'S CELLAR.

Wayne Wheeler has tired of these weak piping times of peace. He has donned his feathers, painted his cheeks and sounded the tocsin. On to the Rich Man's Cellar! That is his war cry. And here in this desert as in that other which Lew Wallace told us about so long ago, "there is a wilderness of spears as well as a wilderness of sand."

These spears are ballots. Commander Wheeler sees our legions of poor men joining the colors. Grape juice for us all. Those vast private stocks which the rich with their uncanny foresight assembled when the pure white star of ardity peeped out of turbulent skies—well, the rich just can't have them. We are going to confiscate those boards. We are going to pass a law declaring such possessions contraband. Our common denominator of drouth is to be made a universal denominator. So says Wheeler.

He said more in that Chicago blast—rather more, we fancy, than he himself suspects. It is not only in the matter of liquor that the rich man has it on the poor man. He has more diamonds and automobiles, Wheeler avers. And while thus averring Wheeler might have gone rashly on and accused the rich man of having more tuxedos than the poor man. Yes, and more vees does, too. But give Wheeler and his cohorts time and all this will be remedied. If Wheeler can confiscate the rich man's cellar, as he says he can and will, what is to prevent him from confiscating the rich man's jewel cases and garage and wardrobes? Surely the logic of his proposal offers no obstruction. On the contrary, it supplies the incentive and any efficient incentive can fabricate a justification.

In dealing with the Locarno treaties, the German people have the greater opportunity of proving to the world not only their good faith but their sanity and sound judgment. They can prove that they have a consistent and stable will to work out their own salvation and the salvation of Europe. We shall be greatly disappointed if the good sense and worth of the German people are not fully demonstrated in this crisis.

THE STORY OF RUTH.

A tidal wave of joy doubtless swept the land as the news of the New York election showed that for the first time in history a woman has been made a member of that city's Board of Aldermen. That wave, we regret to report, missed us completely.

Read what Mrs. Ruth Pratt (for that, indeed, is our heroine's name) has to say: "I want first, not to try to do everything at once." Those are disquieting words. They imply an inferiority complex. They connote uncertainty. They smack of common sense. They fairly reek with prudence. Of no such thoughtful stuff as this are crusaders made.

If the job of improving government is to be undertaken advisedly and carried forward by slow degrees we might as well leave it to plodding man. It was not for this that we dragged woman from the ease and graceful security of the home into the swirling arena of politics. We gave woman the ballot that she might plunge us into Utopia with a splash.

Ruth Pratt is fired by no such zeal. She is orthodox. She is old-fashioned. She declares, in effect, to her fellow Aldermen, that "Your ways shall be my ways and your goal my goal."

The sisters, male and female, who believe it is woman's political mission to reform everything right now are going to be disappointed in the official story of Ruth.

DIRECTOR BROOKS' RIVER-FRONT SCHEME.

A brief statement by Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks, at a Civilian Club luncheon, was printed in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, telling how he would lay out the river front between the municipal and Eads bridges, to provide for street car loops, a grand plaza with riverside promenade, grass, trees and flowers, and also parking space for thousands of automobiles, the downtown district of this problem.

The scheme is so vast that it would involve the virtual wiping out of most of the old buildings, for the creation of three levels, on one of which the street cars would emerge from the underground ways and enter the loops. Then a level, extending from Second street to the water's edge, where it would be 65 feet high, similar to the well-known Thames embankment, would be laid out as a promenade, with the usual park features, for the enjoyment of citizens. West of this a broad driveway connecting North and South St. Louis, and still west the parking space for automobiles.

The plan can be further elucidated. Director Brooks says it has the approval of President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service, and is not a fantastic or impractical scheme. What is important is that city authorities, the City Plan Commission and leading citizens who wish to see a reconstructed river front should get together and formulate some plan that shall completely renovate this most backward part of the city and combine usefulness with beauty so that it will be in harmony with and truly auxiliary to the new downtown St. Louis of the bond issue.

Mr. Dunne should know better. Doesn't ex-Gov. Dunne of Illinois know better than to get into a controversy with Wayne B. Wheeler about anything, especially about Christ? Dunne said that if Christ came to Chicago and turned water into wine he would be put in jail for violation of the dry laws. But Wheeler, an authority on all such questions, promptly squelched Dunne by saying: "If Christ came to Chicago he would, first of all, obey the laws." A Jew and the subject of a Roman Emperor, he obeyed laws that He did not like.

It would be useless for Dunne to refer Wheeler to St. Luke, Chapter 6, Verse 11, in which Christ broke the law twice and was rebuked by the Pharisees, who were filled with madness, and commanded one with the other what they might do to Jesus? The fact that Christ was noted for his rebellion against and disregard of oppressive laws doesn't happen to fit in with Mr. Wheeler's purposes. And Mr. Wheeler's purposes are superior to facts, reason and argument.

Mr. Dunne may as well surrender.

SOCRATES AND HIS PUPILS.

Socrates: Too bad you young men could not have been at the agora last night. I think we were more optimistic than usual. It all came about as a consequence of something that was said by Crites. You know, he has a theory that the reason we have permitted others to filch our liberty is because it is gained for us by our forefathers. That is like money we never earned ourselves, we do not prize it and are therefore prodigal of it.

Glaucus: Is there anything cheering about that?

Socrates: Have patience, Glaucus. The cheering note came out in the discussion following this exposition. I don't think there was anyone present who disagreed with Crites that we are prodigal of our liberty. However, what we did seem able to agree upon was that having lost it we will likely see out to get it back. There is a saying that there are three generations from shirt-sleeves to shirt-sleeves. It is likely that it will be something like that from tyranny to tyranny. Eternal vigilance has been quoted to us as the price of freedom.

Wayne Wheeler has the touching faith of a little child in the omniscience of the law, and in some respects he has the reasoning powers of a little child. Anyhow, he fails to perceive the sinister figure back of the potency of the law which he is so recklessly invoking.

The name of the sinister figure towards which Mr. Wheeler is now darting coquettish glances is Prince Mob.

PORK CHOPS FOR GEORGE.

George, the Pullman porter, is not satisfied with bringing home the bacon. He is going to join a union, so as to insure himself pork chops. He complains that when tips are light, bacon is all he can afford.

We don't believe that George, in forming a labor union, intends to present a schedule of tips. It is more likely that he is on the right track. The uniform courtesy and industry of our George deserve wages that will place them above the necessity of looking for heavy tips. Let the company see to it that they get their pork chops. A strike of Pullman porters is surely something the traveling public does not deserve.

It pleases us to inform Just a Minute and the Professor of Journalism that Jack is the second member of the celebrated Daniels family to escape from the lions' den.

MR. DUNNE SHOULD KNOW BETTER.

Doesn't ex-Gov. Dunne of Illinois know better than to get into a controversy with Wayne B. Wheeler about anything, especially about Christ? Dunne said that if Christ came to Chicago and turned water into wine he would be put in jail for violation of the dry laws.

But Wheeler, an authority on all such questions, promptly squelched Dunne by saying: "If Christ came to Chicago he would, first of all, obey the laws."

Mr. Dunne may as well surrender.

Socrates: And wouldn't you say it is cheering to know that when the enemies of liberty have made off with the last bit of it we are going to get out after them and bring all of it back?

Thrasymachus: It is cheering, truly.

Socrates: Very well. Now let us buy a

BANKERS AND BORROWERS

From the Quincy Whig-Journal

FURTHER evidence that most people are honest with their bankers is furnished by one of the larger savings banks of the East, which reports that out of a total of $50,000,000 in loans in the last 16 years, loss on personal loans has been just $1,000.

This loss was confined to just three persons, one of whom left unpaid a sum of $1,000 on a Liberty Bond. Another was a woman who had put up some stock as collateral and whose estate went into bankruptcy at her death.

The third instance was that of a woman, once well known, who had lost her fortune through investments recommended by a nephew. For a long time before her death this woman had been unable to pay the interest on note, and the bank, instead of foreclosing on the security, which was all the bonds had to live on, simply renewed the note as it became due.

Banks are not so much concerned with the fortunes of individuals as they are with

SEVEN MAYORS SPEAK
AT C. LUNCHEONMayor Anderson of Hannibal Gives Principal Address at "Boost Missouri" Meeting.

Seven Mayors were introduced at yesterday's luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce, "Boost Missouri" was the theme of most of the Mayors' talks, and two of the Mayors included East St. Louis. They were the principal speaker, Mayor Morris Anderson of Hannibal, magazine writer, and Chautauqua lecturer, and Mayor M. M. Stephens of East St. Louis.

Mayor Stephens urged that St. Louis and East St. Louis "pull together, since what was good for one was good for the other." Mayor A. O. Cunningham of University City said he felt quite at home, since most of the St. Louis business men at the meeting lived in University City. Mayor J. M. Jensen of Richmond Heights said he had been Mayor since 1912 and had run out of speeches. Mayor Eugene Burks of Maplewood said he was a Democrat and Mayor J. B. Chipman of Webster Groves said he was a Republican.

Miller Replies to Critics.

Mayor Miller, observing that quite a bit of comment had been made concerning his choice of companions for a hunting trip, remarked, "I am sorry, indeed, but all the bootleggers, thieves and gangsters were in jail, and I had to pick somebody."

"The Romance of the Up-Stater" was the subject of Mayor Anderson's address. "Why, Northeast Missouri won the World War, with a little outside help," he asserted. "Champ Clark's Congress ordered out the soldiers. Crowds gathered them together, Coontz took them across and when Pershing got hold of them over there it was good night for the Kaiser—who had never laid a footprint west of Missouri's border."

Missouri Literature.

So he came to literature and Mark Twain. "The touch of whose genius made a sleepy village famous. You cannot go into that old cave at Hannibal without fancying that Tom and Becky have just turned the next curve ahead. You cannot gaze at that wooded island across the river without feeling that the next moment the raft of Huck Finn and Negro Jim will round that distant point."

He suggested that Missouri should have a slogan, something like this: "Honk! Honk!" Get out of our way or you'll get run over!" Missourians should so work to improve the State, he said, that St. Peter, in the final show-down, would say, "Why, of course, come in—but I'm afraid you won't be admitted here."

FUNCTIONING OF THE LEAGUE

From the New York Herald-Tribune.

THE Council of the League of Nations made short work of the Greek-Bulgarian conflict. It was a situation which required prompt and vigorous action. Both Greece and Bulgaria apparently had flagrantly ignored their obligations under the covenant not to engage in hostilities without first referring their quarrel to the League or attempting to mediate it diplomatically. Both countries could not claim to have acted solely in self-defense. A suspension of military activities was imperative and the council secured it, thus adding materially to its prestige as an adjuster of minor European quarrels and a preserver of peace. It is by successively dealing with lesser issues that the league can ultimately gain the ability to cope with large issues.

SKIDDING TOWARD SATAN.

From the Chattanooga Times.

M. C. A. is in session at Washington, and a whole lot of things are happening in the country and some of them are listed by speakers at group meetings. Here are a few of the undesirable that are declared to be character-destroying influences in our social life: The family automobile; too little "woodshed" discipline; American advertising, which creates desire for things not needed; the installment plan; lack of proper sex education; salacious magazines; gambling; dancing; drinking and drugs; too much spare time; lack of religious teaching in the home; fewer family meals together, and the propensity of parents to travel without their children; betting parties and immodest feminine attire. It is a formidable array and if it be true that all of these things are as bad as they are painted his Satanic Majesty must be preparing to receive in toto a people who are fast skidding his way.

The bride was gowned in white satin and pearls, with godets of princess lace adding fullness to the skirt. Her train was satin, lined with flesh-colored chiffon, and weighted with orange blossoms, half concealed by a veil of old family lace. She carried roses and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Louis Roth, was gowned in powder blue georgette. A draped panel from the shoulders ended in a bow and over the front of the skirt there was a flounce of silver lace. A train which depended from the panel back was trimmed with deeper blue velvet flowers. The bridesmaids, Misses Mildred Edwards of Kansas City, Miss Elizabeth Hubbell, Miss Harriet Logan and Miss Lois Forsythe, wore pastel-colored, white, yellow, green, orchid and peach georgette, made over slips of the same color, with circular skirts inserted with shaded godets which flared, giving the effect of morning glories. PERSHING'S DEMANDS FOR
PLEBISCITE CONTROL GRANTED
Gives Commission Power to Impose
Safeguards in Tacoma-Arica Voting.

RAIL BROTHERHOODS SEEK WAR-TIME WAGE LEVELS
Restoration of Schedule Would Mean $25,000,000 a Year Additional Budget to Carriers.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Announcement was made today that the motion of Gen. John J. Pershing before the plebiscitary commission, which contained demands of a sweeping nature for the establishment of the commission's right to interfere in all aspects of the plebiscite over the disposition of Tacoma and Arica, was approved by the commission Nov. 2.

The motion contains 11 points which the Americans considered essential prerequisites "at the present time for further progress" toward a free and fair plebiscite.

The first point calls for the removal from Tacoma and Arica of the military garrison, except for a number of troops equal to those of Peru in similar territory beyond the boundary. The second and third provide for a reduction of police, carabiniers, secret service and other officers to the number held in the territory July 20, 1922, the date of the signing of the act of submission. The fourth point asks for the removal of any army police or carabineros now holding civil posts, and the fifth for the removal at the demand of the commission of any civil authority in the provinces.

The sixth point obligates sub-delegates, inspectors and other persons relieved of their posts to leave Tacoma-Arica unless they are natives. The seventh provides for freedom of entry of all voters and all persons legitimately connected with the plebiscite. The eighth demands absolute freedom for travel in the territory and the ninth for freedom of all parties to propaganda for the elections under full protection.

The tenth point calls for the removal of all forms of censorship, and the eleventh provides for the return of any deported persons from South Chile at the expense of the Chilean Government.

NEW ZEALAND VOTES TO REMAIN WET

Referendum Held on License System, State Purchase, or Prohibition.

By the Associated Press
WELLINGTON, N. Z., Nov. 5.—
New Zealand has decided to remain wet.

The question whether New Zealand should continue its present liquor license system, adopt "state purchase" or Government control of liquor, or swing to prohibition, was voted on in a referendum during yesterday's general elections.

The count of the vote is as yet incomplete, but the returns thus far give the prohibitionists 277,931 votes, vs. against 310,596 for their opponents.

In the parliamentary election the Government won a decisive victory. Premier Coates will have a clear majority in the next Parliament.

Premier Coates will have a clear majority of 25 votes over all other parties in the new House of Representatives.

Compared with the results of the 1922 election, the Reform, or Governmental party, has a net gain of 17 seats, while the Nationalist party is left with only 12, as against 25 in the last Parliament.

East St. Louis Resident, Mother of Six Children, Says She Rented Attic to Man.

A six-room bungalow at 1300 North Thirtieth street, East St. Louis, a residential district, was found to contain 500 gallons of mash and a 50-gallon still in operation yesterday by prohibition agents under Deputy Administrator J. R. Barker, who raided the house on a warrant.

Felix Venzelato, who was found in charge of the still in the attic, was arrested. Mrs. Anna Potos, whose name the warrant bore, told agents that she had rented the attic to Venzelato and had no knowledge of the still.

A year ago Mrs. Potos pleaded guilty to violating the prohibition law when arrested for selling liquor from her confectionery at Second street and Bowman avenue. At the request of welfare workers, who pointed out that Mrs. Potos was the mother of six children, the oldest of whom was 13, Federal Judge English was lenient and paroled her to Human Officer Ewing for six months. Venzelato was employed by her at the time and he also pleaded guilty.

A six-room bungalow at 1300 North Thirtieth street, East St. Louis, a residential district, was found to contain 500 gallons of mash and a 50-gallon still in operation yesterday by prohibition agents under Deputy Administrator J. R. Barker, who raided the house on a warrant.

Felix Venzelato, who was found in charge of the still in the attic, was arrested. Mrs. Anna Potos, whose name the warrant bore, told agents that she had rented the attic to Venzelato and had no knowledge of the still.

A year ago Mrs. Potos pleaded guilty to violating the prohibition law when arrested for selling liquor from her confectionery at Second street and Bowman avenue. At the request of welfare workers, who pointed out that Mrs. Potos was the mother of six children, the oldest of whom was 13, Federal Judge English was lenient and paroled her to Human Officer Ewing for six months. Venzelato was employed by her at the time and he also pleaded guilty.

BRICK MEN HOLD CONVENTION

Four brick and tile plants were visited yesterday afternoon by delegates to the convention of the National Brick Manufacturers' Association at Hotel Chase.

The story of "Brick in Architecture" was told in an illustrated address at the morning session by William Itiner, St. Louis architect. Other technical addresses and one on styles of brick and tiles in European architecture completed the session.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE FIGHT
OVER CREATING 25 NEW SEATS

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Plans of the New York Stock Exchange to extend its ticket facilities to the Pacific coast and Florida were mentioned in its recent decision to raise some $3,000,000 by the sale of 25 new seats, it developed when a fight over the proposal was carried to an open debate yesterday. Several hundred members of the exchange listened to a defense of the plan by President E. H. H. Simmons, and to opposing views of a group headed by Eben Stevens. The proposal will be voted upon by the full membership on Nov. 11. The proceedings of yesterday's meeting were not made public.

The extension plan encountered opposition from many brokers, who argued that the institution should draw upon its present reserves or adopt a method of financing which would not impair the equity of present memberships.

DUTCH' ANDERSON SON OF NOBILITY, ATTORNEY SAYS

Rochester, N. Y., Resident States Slain Criminal Was Ivan Dahl von Feller of Denmark.

By the Associated Press.
ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 5.—The veil of mystery that shrouded the real identity of George "Dutch" Anderson, slayer, bank robber and desperado, whose career was ended by a bullet from his own revolver in Muskegon, Mich., last Saturday after he had killed a detective, was pierced today.

In a copyrighted story the Rochester Journal and the Post-Express prints the life history of the desperado, as given by William J. Baker, an attorney of this city, and to whom the police of the Michigan city have turned for advice, now that the curtain has fallen on one of the amazing crime dramas of America. The records at Atlanta Federal prison gave the name of "Mr. Baker" as the person to be called in case of death.

While the bullet-riddled body of Anderson lies in the morgue at Muskegon—it will be temporarily interred in that city at the direction of Baker—a widowed mother awaits patiently in Denmark for another letter from the boy she thinks is prospering in business in this country. That letter never will arrive.

And to the Rochester attorney falls the lot of breaking the sad news.

Mme. von Teller, representative of a noble Danish family, never knew that her son, Ivan Dahl von Teller and "Dutch" Anderson, internationally known bandit, safecracker and desperado, were one and the same.

Story Told by Baker.

Baker said: "She does not know and I hope she never will know."

No matter what others may say about Anderson's real name being Brown or Heins, or any of many other aliases he used, and fixing his birthplace as St. Louis or any American city, the facts remain: and I can vouch for its authenticity—that he was born in Denmark and christened Ivan Dahl von Teller.

"At the age of 20 he ran away from home and came to America. With 'the lid off' it was not long before he fell in with criminals of various kinds and soon his genius for crime began to assert itself. From petty crimes he soon became a member of larger 'mobs' and it was not many years before he found himself a leader in the circle of those who lived by pitting their intelligence against that of the police for big stakes."

Hated Organized Society.

"In his Berlin pictures there is an unmistakable sneer in the downward drawn left corner of his mouth. Although even among the police he was always characterized as 'the gentleman crook,' he himself frankly admitted a vicious hatred against organized society."

"This he attributed to an experience in South Carolina where he was convicted of a crime because, as he would have phrased it, 'there was no one else to hang on' and sent to one of the turpentine camps operated by convict labor."

Although Baker said he had received no direct communication from Anderson since his escape from Atlanta nearly two years ago, he expressed no surprise at the way in which he came to his end.

"Anderson always said he would never be captured alive again," the attorney said, "but the thing I can't understand is this: that he had a woman companion with him when he was captured. Anderson never worked with women to my knowledge, and I've known him for a long time."

Visited Rochester When Free.

From the time of his release from Auburn until his escape from Atlanta, Baker declared, Anderson looked upon Rochester as a kind of sanctuary and refrained from plying his vocation in this city. He visited the attorney many times during his free years and, according to Baker, invariably notified Detective-Captain McDonald of his presence in this city, to avoid the humiliation of being picked up in the street and taken to police headquarters for questioning.

Baker said he would arrange to have the body interred in Muskegon, where he would then communicate with Madame von Teller as to the final disposition of the body of her son.

"She does not get the American papers," he said, "and for many years her only news from America has been the regular letters from her son."

Anderson met Gerald Chapman in Auburn prison when he was serving a sentence for a Jewish robbery in Rochester. He was at that time teaching Spanish in the prison school and found in Chapman a kindred spirit. From that time, Baker said, their paths ran together until Chapman's Arrest in New Britain, Conn., for the murder of a policeman. Chapman had appealed a death sentence in this case.

migration laws has created a big problem.

During recent weeks a fast airplane has been seen by residents on the Canadian side of the border skimming along the line, spying over out nests of "bootleggers" or watching the unwary automobile driver in any attempt he may make to cross the line by avoiding the regulations.

Many persons have been arrested for trying to evade the United States Immigration laws, and, according to the American inspector here, they pay rather heavily when they claim their belongings at the Lost Property Office at Police Headquarters.

Money and securities will be returned to owners at a charge of 4 per cent of their value. Jewelry,
"except anything having no intrinsic value," is redeemable on the same terms. The "no intrinsic value" clause is expected to kill a promising publicity field in the matter of lost jewelry. For every other article, new or nearly new, 2 francs will be charged; for everything else, one franc.

LOCK STREET CAR AT NIGHT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BETHANY, W. Va.—The only trolley car on the Wellsville-Bethany Traction Co. line is to be locked up at night henceforth, company officials announced recently.

Some one got into the car last week, stole the car and hid it in an alleyway. For two days residents along the line had to walk, while company employees and police hunted for the car. When it was found, Bayard W. Sailor, a Bethany College senior was arrested and charged with its theft. Sailor was freed when no witness appeared against him.

Sciatic
Neuritis

The sciatic nerve, situated at the back of the hip joint, is frequently the subject of Neuritis, giving rise to the painful disease Sciatica. The symptoms are intense pain which shoots down the thigh to the foot, often aggravated by walking, and with painful points along the course of the nerve, very tender to the touch.

The disease is often obstinate and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative to alleviate the pain.

The quickest test and surest way to get rid of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allen's Special Formula No. 2, which contains the best known drugs and native roots in about 24 hours they have considerably reduced if not entirely removed the disease. Continue until the Neuritis has entirely disappeared and you are able to work and play in full health again. Allen's Drug Co. keeps Allen's Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sells lots of it.

BIG TONNAGE PREDICTED FOR LAKE-TO-GULF WATERWAY

Senator Deneen of Illinois Thinks Illinois Portion of Route Will Be Completed in Three Years

CHICAGO.—One million tons of freight a year is the estimate experts give to a Lakes-to-the-Gulf waterway. In the belief of United States Senator Deneen, Illinois' portion of the route will be ready in three years.

"Great numbers of industries would be benefited by a waterway," says the Rail Steel Bar Association. "Not only would a great part of the United States get lower freight rates, but manufacturers would be able to lay down their products in South and Central America at a big saving.

"As an instance of the saving, it is stated that an automobile manufactured in the Middle West could be delivered in South America via lake-gulf waterway at a reduction of $200 in freight rates.

"The extent of the commerce borne by such a route may be realized when it is known that in 1924 the Government barge system between St. Louis and New Orleans carried more than $80,000 tons of freight and considerably more than paid expenses."

FUND OF $500,000
TO BE SOUGHT FOR JEWISH CHARITIES

Campaign, to Be Conducted Next Month, Will Be First of Kind in Several Years.

A campaign for $500,000 for the Federation of Jewish Charities, the first to be conducted in several years, will be made early next month. A campaign committee has been chosen, with David Sommers as chairman and Herman Husch, Sidney Shoeheng and Mrs. A. H. Shank as associate chairmen.

The movement embraces all Jewish charitable activities of St. Louis, both orthodox and reformed, and the funds raised will be used for maintenance of established agencies of relief and social betterment which are affiliated with the federation. A budget committee will have charge of the distribution.

The Federation of Jewish Charities has not made a public appeal of this nature for many years but we have reached a point, however, when a large fund must be available to meet the immediate necessities of our expanding work in all directions," Simmons said today.

The institutions and organizations in the federation are: Jewish Community Center, Dorothy Drey Synagogue, Jewish Shelter Home, Jewish Sanatorium, Jewish Home for Crippled Children, Jewish Orphan Home, Miriam-Rose Bryan Home, Jewish Orphan Home, Orthodox Ola Folks Home, Jewish Educational Alliance, Jewish Sheltering Home and Young Men's Hebrew Association.

It is probable a few additional institutions may be added to this list.

BUSTED BOOM TOWN MUST REMAIN IN RECEIVERSHIP

U. S. Supreme Court Rules That Sour Lake, Tex. Must Pay All Debts From Taxes.

SOUR LAKE, Tex.—Receivership of the town of Sour Lake must continue until sufficient taxes have been collected to pay the bonds and other debts incurred during the period that it was an incorporated municipality, according to decision of the United States Supreme Court. For the last five years the affairs of Sour Lake have been in the hands of three receivers, appointed by the Federal Court at Beaumont. These receivers are Phillip Baer, United States Marshal, Steve King and Hal Land, all of Beaumont.

The financial difficulties of Sour Lake grew out of the big boom it had some years ago when oil was discovered here. Its population doubled, trebled and continued to multiply until it was one of the most populous towns of Southeast Texas. It was duly incorporated and a charter was obtained. Then came the collapse of the boom.

Vernon Branch of Kansas City had purchased $20,000 worth of municipal government bonds of Sour Lake. The question of the validity of the town's charter arose and was taken into court with the result that it was decided that the municipality had no legal existence. In order that Branch and other creditors might be protected the court appointed receivers to assess and collect taxes and to conduct other business of the town. Under the recent decision the receivers will continue with their duties as they were originally outlined by Federal Judge W. L. Estates.

PUNCHIER SERMONS TO FOLLOW
CHALLENGE OF ARCHBISHOP

Episcopal Priests in England to Discard "Kid Gloves" Variety to Swell Attendance.

LONDON.—When the Archbishop of Canterbury recently charged that sparsely attended church services were due to inadequacy of the present day sermons and that the majority of priests in the Episcopal Church were derelict in their duty, he caused more of a stir than appears on the surface, according to well informed churchmen. It is said that priests throughout the diocese of London have decided to abandon the "kid glove" variety of sermon and that hereafter their parishioners will be treated to orthodox Christianity delivered with a punch.

The Rev. Dr. J. D. Jones, president of the Congregational Union of England and Wales, in his recent address at Bournemouth indicated he had about the same views as the Episcopal prelate. He told the assembled ministers that present day church methods call for sermons with a greater grip. He insisted that the only successful church was one in which the pastor made it thro' with life and power. He held that the church with reality in its sermon, with a gripping reality at the heart of it were the ones that were driven home. Dr. Jones declared the recovery of prosperity in the material world hinged on a real revival in faith.

Does Winter Fill You With Dread?

Better Get Rid of Your Rheumatic Pains and Twinges—NOW.

James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He frequently discovered which he called ALLENHIT, which took it with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging his doctor to publish his discovery, he wrote about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed Ward Wolff, Wilson Drug Co., to dispense ALLENHIT with the understanding that if the first pint bottle of medicine the way to complete recovery be within a day, return your money without comment.

DEBTS IN PIE MACHINE CASE PUT AT $300,000

Consists Largely of Claims of Purchasers Against Sales Company.

Debts of the Automat Sales Co., which put "Sunny Jim" pie and sandwich servers in use in many stores here last summer, likely will aggregate about $300,000, Harry E. Sprague, temporary receiver of the company, said today. This consists almost entirely of the claims of purchasers of 2170 servers which were paid for but not delivered.

As has been told, the sales company sold servers; purchasers leased them to the Allied Automat Service Co., and the service company, which now is in bankruptcy, agreed to maintain them and keep up the pie and sandwich supply.

Price of Servers Rose.

The sales company has no funds in St. Louis and only about $200 in Detroit, where the business was transferred, Sprague said. While 3370 servers were sold here, the service company only placed 1200 of them. The purchasers are looking still for the others. About 1528 of the 2170 servers were sold at $125 each and $42 at $150, the price having risen with the demand.

The total received from sale of the undelivered machines, according to the receiver's figures, was $287,800.

Sprague held out hope for realization of assets from two contracts held by the sales company for distribution of servers. One of these, calling for purchase of at least 100 servers a month is in Chicago. The other, with similar terms, is in New York and New Jersey. The Chicago contract is not taking the required allotment, Sprague said, but the other contract is taking 100 servers per week, at a gross profit of $10 per machine to the sales company.

This constitutes the sales company's chief assets, Sprague concluded, and he sees no reason why the company should not have gross profits of $4000 to $5000 a week in prospect.

The sales company has a $10,000 claim against the service company, comprising $45,000 cash advanced and $46,000 for service fees on servers which were not installed, Sprague declared. The service fee is at the rate of $20 per server, covering cost of installation and service. In addition, the sales company paid the service company $20 per server on machines which were installed, and about which there is no complaint.

"It is clear the sales company was the banker. If not the angel, of the service company," Sprague asserted.

Both Incorporated.

The sales and service companies both were incorporated for $100,000 under Nevada laws, Sprague explained, but in each case only $1000 was actual cash, the remainder being put in as the value of contracts. Books showed that $30,000 was paid in dividends, which was at the rate of 1500 per cent on the actual cash invested in each company, he said.

The sales organization of the sales company received 40 per cent of the sales price as commission. Sprague found that and it was divided among various officials, including 5 per cent for James A. Hool, dominant figure in the company. In a six months' period the sales company realized $459,139 in cash from sale of machines, its books show.

Creditors of the service company met today at the office of Referees in Bankruptcy Court and elected Robert L. Spelbrink, an attorney, as trustee in bankruptcy. About 150 persons were present, including many women, most of these persons being storekeepers who had thought they could make money from the profits of pie and sandwich servers. A number of women, who had failed to file formal claims, were not allowed to vote.

WHAT HARVARD CAN'T PASS

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 5.—There are three things a Harvard man cannot pass gracefully—a football, a bargain counter, and out in the opinion of the woman students of Radcliffe. The views of the girls attending Harvard's sister college in Cambridge were made public in the "crime" column of the Harvard Crimson today.

Some time ago the Lampoon, Harvard undergraduate comic publication, published an article reflecting on the attractiveness of the Radcliffe girls. There was a picture of a young woman gazing intently with the legend: "The only examination which a Radcliffe girl can't pass." The Crimson opened its columns for the Radcliffe retort.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 5.—T. M. N. George of Atlanta, Ga., was killed by thugs Tuesday on the streets of Tijuana, Mexico. He died of a fractured skull. Identification was made through a fraternal card he carried. George, assistant manager of the Cotton Insurance Association, came here from Dallas Sunday and went to Tijuana the following day. Considerable money in express orders was found in his pockets.

Jeweler Robbed in Holdup.

Two armed men stopped Albert F. Niemeyer, a jeweler, at 1233 Market street, as he reached his home, 4257 Maryland avenue, at 8:45 o'clock last night. They took from him a $475 diamond ring, a $150 diamond pin and a $45 watch and chain—total value $670, and ran away.

BORAH CONSULTED BY COOLIDGE ON ITALIAN DEBT

Senator Understood to Favor Increasing Rigor of Terms as Rome Finances Improves.

HIS ATTITUDE ENDED FRENCH NEGOTIATION

Foreign Relations Chairman May Present His Views to the American Debt Commission.

By CHARLES MICHELSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Senator Borah has become a central figure in the Italian debt negotiations. The American Commissioners are determined to reach an agreement if possible, which means that they are inclined to give Italy terms so easy that they cannot well be refused. However, they are apprehensive of what Borah will do.

In an effort to head off any untoward movement in the Senate, President Coolidge had Senator Borah at the White House yesterday. The Senator will not disclose what happened, but as he has made no secret of his views, it is fair to presume he told Mr. Coolidge that while he was heartily in favor of granting Italy whatever consideration she required as a beginning of refunding her debt, he did not feel the terms should be made according to her present impoverished state.

In other words, should Italy's financial condition improve through the years, the settlement will run, he thinks the United States should benefit by that improvement. Granting that now she can pay comparatively little, the Senator appears to be willing to make terms accordingly, but with the reservation of a new deal should things so come about that larger payments could be made without detriment to her solvency.

Borah May Meet Commission.
There is some likelihood that Borah will be invited to appear before the Debt Commission and give his idea of what Italy should pay. This plan has not gone beyond the stage of informal discussion, but it has been advanced that a good deal will be gained if the commission has the Senator's concrete plan rather than an indefinite fear of an attack later on.

Borah is credited with having been more responsible than any other individual for the rejection of the last proposal France made, by reason of the influence of his opinion on the President and on Senator Smeal.

Settlement of the Italian debt will be looked for until next week. It would be premature to say the Commissioners anticipate an agreement, but they are going about the negotiations in a way to prevent an impasse such as resulted from the dithering with the French.

No Talk of Terms.

So far there has been no talk of terms. The two commissions met, divided their forces into subcommittees, one to consider Italy's capacity to pay and the other to deal with the question of the transfer of payments, to be made from Italian into American currency.

It is doubtful if there will be any approach to an offer from the Americans for some days. At the White House dinner last night President Coolidge talked with Count Volpi and other members of the delegation. The Italian Minister was interpreted. The President said none of his proverbial reticence and the visitors were enthusiastic at the cordiality of the gathering.

TEXAS RANCHES CONVERTED INTO WILD GAME PRESERVES

Protection Offered Under Law and Stocking Also Will Be Done at Expense of State.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
AUSTIN, Tex.—Many ranches of Texas are being converted into wild game preserves as a result of the law which was passed by the last Legislature, providing that State protection should be given all such preserves. The stocking of these big holdings with wild animals and birds also will be done at the expense of the State. The largest of the preserves so far established embraces 15,000 acres of the ranch belonging to the estate of the late Mrs. Henrietta M. Kimball. This preserve borders the Gulf coast and is already well stocked with deer. The lakes and barrens upon the place are the gathering places for myriads of wild ducks and geese. Mexican panthers, wildcats and other animals which are found in the heart of the sportsman's paradise are to be found in the wilds of this preserve.

Another ranch which is being made into a wild game preserve is that which was formerly owned by Charles F. Taft of Cincinnati. The ranch embraces 200,000 acres, of which 100,000 acres are to be given over to the protection and propagation of game animals and birds. Several ranches in the upper border regions of the State have also been accepted as wild game preserves. This protection by the State of wild life does not interfere with ranch ownership or operations.

BEAUTIFUL PICTURES FOR HOME or OFFICE at Low Cost

An artist of the Post-Dispatch art department says if you want a beautiful picture in your home, which looks like an oil painting, cut out the front color page of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine, and treat it as follows: Get a piece of heavy cardboard, with a rough or pebbled surface—building board will answer—dampen the back of the picture with a wet cloth, then coat the back with photographic paste, lay the picture evenly on the cardboard and rub into close contact with the board; place on a table and weight picture down for the night so it will not curl, next day paint the surface with white shellac; when dry put on a second coat; finally, when bone-dry, take a soft rag and some floor wax and polish the entire surface. If you follow these directions carefully, you will deepen the tones of the colors and insure their permanency. The finished picture closely resembles an oil painting.

U. S. MUST JOIN COURT OR ARM, CHURCH SAYS

Adherence to World Tribunal Urged in Armistice Sunday Statement.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Unless America definitely prepares for peace it will inevitably walk in the road towards war," says the Armistice Sunday statement to the churches of the country from the Commission on International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches. "No one wants another war," it states.

The document is part of the practical campaign of religious bodies of the country in behalf of America's joining the World Court. It urges all Christians to study carefully from the Christian viewpoint the question of the United States joining the World Court and to tell their United States Senators their judgment regarding the matter.

Outlaw War or Arm.

In part it says: "The alternatives before the world are the co-operative creation of effective agencies for the settlement of every dispute by the arbitration of reason, law and ciliation, with security, justice and economic opportunity for all alike, and on the other hand, ever-increasing competitive preparations for war by each rival nation; either binding agreements and affirmative jurisdiction for the World Court of Justice and other suitable tribunals, with the complete outlawing of war; or, increasing war preparations and finally another world war.

Even by armaments, peace and security are not really assured. In the end, the preparations for war may be a cause of war.

"The choice of the vast majority of Americans cannot be doubted. No one wants another World War. No right-minded persons wants the United States to press forward in competitive armaments, necessitating huge and ruinous war taxes in peace times. But Americans by the million must face the fact that unless our nation definitely prepares for peace, by effectively co-operating with the nations in building the world institutions for peace, we shall inevitably walk in the road toward war.

Added Strength to Court.

The immediate practical question before the nation regards its relation to the Permanent Court of International Justice. Shall or shall not the United States become an adherent to that Court? Would or would not American adhesion strengthen the court as an agency for world justice, for the early outlawing of war by all nations, and so for world peace?

"Obviously, the answer depends on the nature, jurisdiction and work of the court as it now is. It was earnestly suggested to the churches therefore, that at this armistice period the attention of the people be focused on the nature, work and value of the Permanent Court of International Justice as a world agency for world peace. They should know what it is, what it can do and what it cannot do. Only so will they be able to influence public opinion in such a way that the Senate next December will ratify the court protocol and thus make the United States a member of the Court."

Duchess Directs Moving Vans

Daughter-in-Law of British Rulers Goes to Curzon House.

London, Nov. 5.—Five large furniture vans were required to move the possessions of the Duke and Duchess of York from White Lodge, Richmond Park, to Curzon House, Curzon street, Mayfair, which will be the winter home of the son and daughter-in-law of the King and Queen. The Duchess superintended the moving. All Mayfair was out yesterday to watch the transfer of numerous trunks, boxes and suitcases containing the personal belongings of the pair. Since Curzon House is furnished, no personal effects were moved. Little use has been made of the house since the last war.

It is a small Georgian house—small, that is, as royal dwellings go, having only 20-odd bedrooms—but it is well arranged for entertaining and is only a stone's throw from Chesterfield House, the London residence of Princess Mary and her husband, Viscount Lascelles.

How the League's Big Stick Stopped a Balkan War

THE OLD WAR-TORN WORLD has swung into a new epoch at last, and a new chapter in human history has begun, say experienced editorial observers as they see two Balkan belligerents actually stop a war at the command of the League of Nations. It is taken, too, as a heartening sequel to the peace-pledge of Locarno when a word of command from the League can quench a flaming fuse of conflict in that ever-menacing powder magazine of tangled racial hates and fierce national rivalries.

The New York World declares that "today, for the first time within the memory of man, the great Western Powers have stood united on a Balkan question, and for the first time when they commanded peace the Balkans obeyed."

The importance of the ultimatum which the League of Nations issued to Greece and Bulgaria can scarcely be exaggerated, says the New York Times, which welcomes it as evidence that "we are living in a new epoch" in which hereafter "the advance of strong and enlightened nations may be achieved without the maiming and slaughter of the nations' best and bravest." And, continues the Times: "Today those of little faith are asking what the authority of the League would have come to if, instead of disarmed Bulgaria and exhausted Greece, the belligerents had been Powers of the first order. The answer is the treaties of Locarno."

On the other hand, there is a note of skepticism sounded in some quarters of America. For instance, in the Washington Post we read: "The spectacle of the League of Nations shutting its eyes and ears to the Moroccan and Syrian wars, while forbidding Greece and Bulgaria to fight, is a striking illumination of the fact that the League is merely a machine for manipulation of European affairs by the Great Powers."

The Literary Digest this week, the November 7th number, is liberally devoted to a comprehensive review of the uprising in the Balkans. It shows what caused it, where the fighting took place, and how and why hostilities ceased so abruptly. By means of translation from the newspapers of the affected countries in the Balkans, one is able to obtain a "close-up" of how the peoples of these nations view a security pact against war. These articles are copiously illustrated with cartoons and a map.

Prophets and Proofs of Prosperity in America

THE BELIEF IN PROSPERITY which sustains the present boom in Wall Street seems to be shared by practically every authority in the business and financial world. Sir Robert Horne, a frequent visitor here, leaves our shores declaring that he has never before seen the "real prosperity there is today in every form of finance, industry and trade," a prosperity not confined to the wealthy, but extending to every one, and with nothing in sight that can stop it. Henry Ford predicts "a century of prosperity." Elbert H. Gary tells us "we are on the verge of a great era of prosperity," and other steel leaders agree with him. Bank presidents—including President Mitchell, of the National City Bank,

New York—and Chambers of Commerce throughout the country, are equally optimistic.

But all these prosperity prophecies need tempering with sobriety, insists the Newark News, which remarks: "Just what this ballyhoo over long-continued prosperity is all about may be as uncertain as the meaning of Florida's real estate boom." As an offset, it reminds us of statements that we have too many coal mines and too many miners, too many textile mills and textile workers, and, with all this, agitation from big employers to let in more workers. So, "all these things introduce a note of sobriety to tone down the exaltations of the Fords and Mitchells."

OLIAN ACQUITTED OF STOLEN GOODS CHARGE

Judge Paris Instructs Jury to Return Verdict for Head of Dress Company.

After the Government had completed its case against Leslie B. Olian, 44 years old, president of the Lucille Dress Co., 803 Washington avenue, charged with possession of merchandise stolen from an interstate shipment, Federal Judge Paris yesterday afternoon instructed the jury to return a verdict for the defendant.

In so instructing the jury, Judge Paris held that the Government failed to establish shipment of the goods. "This is another of those cases where the Government attempted something that should have been left to the State," he said.

History of Case.
Olian, who resides at 5866 Waterman avenue, was arrested Sept. 15, 1924, after an investigation of a series of thefts of merchandise shipments from the Wash. street platform, at the foot of Franklin avenue. Detectives said at that time that they had recovered silk from a merchant in Centralia, Ill., who said he had purchased it from Olian.

Two employees of a New York silk mill, from where the silk was sent to B. Nugent & Brothers Co., and railroad employees handling the shipment were called as witnesses of the Government but most of their testimony was excluded on objection of defense counsel, A. M. Frumberg and Harry Hagedorn.

Attorney Frumberg told reporters the conclusion of the trial that his client was innocent of the charges against him, and asserted that the transactions were made by Samuel Walters, who had rented floor space from Olian. Walters pleaded guilty of the charge last March and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Judge Paris.

Olian is charged in another Federal indictment with possession of woolen goods stolen from an interstate shipment. This case was continued yesterday and will probably be dismissed by the Government.

years old, of 3019 South Jefferson avenue, a locomotive engineer, who has served the railroad 35 years, and Joseph Delarber, 65, of 6002 Virginia avenue, a fireman, who has served 34 years.

The warranty deed of the Daniel Boone home in St. Charles has been recorded at the Courthouse in St. Charles, showing a price received for it by Mrs. Jennie C. Forstall from Col. Frank Curley and George Hagee. Hagee was a nephew of Mrs. Forstall.

It is indicated that a deed of trust to Henry Hollmann for $7500 is expected. The document displays revenue stamps which would indicate that $12,500 has been paid down on the place which besides the $1,000 deed of trust, would make a total of $20,000.

When the underwriters of St. Charles bargained for the place the price was $11,500. Later the underwriters, acting as a majority, showed a disposition to refuse to pay $4000 of that amount to the Citizens' Bank at Wrightsville, from which it had been borrowed, inviting the bank to sue and in effect placing their own appraisement on the property at $7500. Mrs. Forstall then at a majority vote of the underwriters assumed all outstanding obligations and took over the property.

She waited on three Presidents in old Dixie years ago

The glory of the old hotel in Nashville lives again in her speech. Statesmen, soldiers, nobles from across the sea, the great folk of long ago, move before us.

"I waited on all the notables of the time," says Maggie Dowd, "including three Presidents: 'Andy' Johnson, Mr. Cleveland and Mr. McKinley when he came with Mrs. McKinley. All of them enjoyed the food at the Maxwell House. And like all the rest, they praised the coffee."

From the years of the Civil War, the Maxwell House of Nashville was the most famous hotel in the old South—celebrated throughout that land of good living for its hospitality, its marvelous food and particularly for its coffee.

Those who once tasted it could never forget it.
A special blend of fine coffee was served at the Maxwell House, full-flavored and fragrant like no other kind. Those who once tasted it carried the memory of it with them. No one could forget it.

In their own homes the patrons of the Maxwell House thought of the rich, alluring flavor of this coffee and wanted it for their own use.

From the South its fame has spread year by year to all parts of the country. Everywhere the families who care most for the fine things of life have taken steps to secure Maxwell House Coffee. And today this same blend is on sale throughout the United States. It is the favorite in most of America's leading cities. It has pleased more people than any other coffee ever put on the market.

Its mellow smoothness, its rich fragrance are now offered to you. When you raise your first cup to your lips, when the first breath of its aroma reaches you, you will understand why it has become so famous. Ask your grocer for one of the blue tins of Maxwell House Coffee. Cheek-Neal Coffee Company, Nashville, Houston, Jacksonville, Richmond, New York, Los Angeles.

YOUTH ADMITS BEING ESCAPED LIFE-TERMER

Prisoner, 20, Identified as Robber of Poker Game and as a Burglar.

A 20-year-old youth, minus coat, trousers and shoes, was paraded in the "showup" of the detectives bureau, today, in the course of which he was pointed out as the robber who held up a poker game, as a burglar who stole some clothing of which he had just been dispossessed, and, finally, as an escaped convict sentenced to life imprisonment for murder.

The youth described himself first as John McKinney, but subsequently admitted he was Peter McKenzie, 20 years old, who escaped from a prison farm at Weldon, Tex.,
Sept. 9, last, where he was serving a life sentence for the murder of a policeman at El Paso. He was arrested Tuesday night in a rooming house at 3822 Washington avenue, where he was found in possession of four automatic pistols or army type.

Tracing the pistols, the police learned they were among nine such revolvers stolen from Jefferson Barracks last August. In this investigation, the detectives learned also that a robber Tuesday evening had held up a poker game, participated in by several soldiers, and carried away $125. The players reported that one of their number turned robber, when he had lost his stakes on a "bluff hand."

"You see, eight and nines win after all," the robber was quoted as saying, as he marched away with the money. But, today the players, in identifying him as the robber, "called" the hand again.

Clothing Claimed.
Leo R. Thompson, of 4071 Mc-Pherson avenue, claimed the man's outer apparel and shoes as part of the loot taken by a burglar from his home Aug. 28. The burglar politely pinned a note to a clock on a mantel, reading: "Next time keep your doors locked. Thanks."

The burglar also drove away in Thompson's Chevrolet automobile, which later was destroyed on a highway near Malden, Mo.

The young man denied the burglary and also the theft of the automobile, although admitting he was in Malden about the time the wrecked automobile was found. He denied the poker game robbery, insisting he won the money fairly.
He did admit being a fugitive from the Texas prison, but insisted he was innocent of the murder charge, having been convicted on circumstantial evidence. He was held pending trial from the Texas authorities, while application will be made for warrants charging burglary and robbery and illegal possession of Government property.

OUSTED IRON WORKER SUES
FOR RESTORATION IN UNION

John C. Dains Also Is Seeking $50,- 000 Damages for His Dismissal for Disobeying Boycott.

John C. Dains, 5730 Theodore avenue, a structural iron worker who now has a suit for $50,000 pending against Local 336 of the International Association of Bridge,
Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, as a result of his being fined for attending a ball game boycotted by the unions last summer, today filed suit in Circuit Court, asking for a mandamus to prevent the union from interfering with him in the pursuit of his vocation, and asking that he be restored to membership.

While working on the Southwestern Bell Telephone Building at Tenth and Pine streets, Sept. 15, the petition states that Dains refused to quit work at the demand of Lou Morgan, business agent of the union, and was discharged by the foreman. He alleges that he was discharged illegally and that his dismissal from the union was illegal.

Judge Falkenhainer issued an order for officials of the union to appear in court Nov. 12, to show cause why the mandamus should not be granted.

During a series of Spurtsman's Park here last July between the Browns and the Philadelphia Athletics, circulars were distributed outside the gates branding the Athletics as unfair to union labor since nonunion labor had been employed in rebuilding the park at Philadelphia. Dains passed inside notwithstanding the protests of a union worker.

AIRPLANE BUILT WITH BRAKE
TO OPERATE AS PART OF WINGS
Manipulated by Separate Lever in Cockpit, Designer Says It Will Greatly Increase Safety.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—A five-passenger airplane is now being built with a brake that is part of the wings and works with a separate lever, Sherman M. Fairchild, president of the Fairchild Airplane Manufacturing Corporation, announced yesterday. The ship is being built at Farmingdale, L. I. It is said the brake will slow down the landing speed approximately 12 per cent and cut the landing distance and take-off run almost in half without affecting the high speed of the ship.

Fairchild stated that the first airplane brake is a part of the wings and is worked through a separate lever in the cockpit, somewhat similar to an automobile emergency brake. This aerial brake greatly increases the safety, according to Fairchild, making it impossible for the ship to stall, brake greatly increases the safety, by landed in a field too small for the present ships. The airplane brake is the result of six-months' wind tunnel tests. The wings can be folded back to the fuselage and the plane can then be parked in a 12-foot automobile garage.

The ship is being constructed for commercial purposes. It is a monoplane with an enclosed cabin, and is powered with a new design Fairchild-Camline four-cylinder, air-cooled engine.

USES AUTO THAT PUSHED HIM
OFF MUDDY ROAD IN FRANCE

Assistant Secretary MacNider Tells of Thrill When He Recognizes Machine Assigned to Him.

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Members of service in France saluted a luncheon given yesterday by officers of the General Staff to their new civilian chiefs. Secretary Dwight F. Davis and Assistant Secretary Hanford MacNider, both of whom served as officers.

MacNider, describing his sensations when he became Assistant Secretary, said his greatest thrill came when he inspected the big, double-wheeled, closed car assigned to him in Washington.

A familiar aspect about the machine caused him to investigate and it proved to be one of those formerly used by Gen. Pershing, and the Assistant Secretary recalled having encountered it on a muddy road in France. He was a platoon commander then and had been forced to march his platoon into the roadside mud to permit the car and its staff occupant to go splashing by.

Secretary Davis took occasion to voice confidence in the fairness and earnestness of the officers of the General Staff. Reference to the staff as bureaucrats unable to grasp new ideas, he said, were unjustified.

RUSSIAN PRINCE, NOW PARIS

CHEF, HAS RUN-IN WITH POLICE

Dashes Out of His Kitchen and Calls Officer an Assortment of Names.

By the Associated Press
PARIS, Nov. 5.—Prince Boris Golitzine, former vice president of the Russian Duma, cousin of the late Emperor Nicholas, but more recently employed as head chef in the Jugo-Slavian restaurant at the Exposition of Decorative Arts, ran afoul of the French law and has been fined 25 francs ($1.25) and costs. He acted as protecting knight to an actress who was taking up a collection in the restaurant, over whose kitchen the former Duma official is now presiding.

Incidentally, the Prince was convicted of an "outrage to the police." A policeman had attempted to prevent the actress from taking up a collection. The Prince-chef ran from the kitchen and called the officer a various assortment of names, and was placed under arrest.

Prince Golitzine was sentenced to death by the Bolsheviks, but escaped from a Moscow prison in 1918. He made his way to Norway and reached Paris penniless.

FIELD WORK ON MISSOURI

FARMS, FURTHER DELAYED

Snow Reached Southern Limits, and in Northern Third Near Zero Cold Obtained.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 4.—The outstanding weather features of a cold winter week in Missouri was the cold wave and general snow the night of Oct. 27, followed by some record-breaking low temperatures and hard freeze which continued from 40 to 75 consecutive hours, the weather bad day bulletin for week ending Nov. 3 said today. The snow and freeze reached northern limits, while in the southern third near zero cold obtained.

Field work has been further delayed, resulting in unusually long and backward farm conditions generally. "In the western border counties wheat sowing is about finished, though with some abandoned acreage; in the west-central counties from north to south not more than half the crop is in, while in all the remainder of the State from about a fourth to a tenth has been sown, and some of this in too wet ground. Though they have about two weeks yet to sow, many farmers say that it is too wet and too late, and they will not plant this year.

Husking and cribbing corn has made slow progress. There is much cotton still in the fields. A small per cent of the apple crop was frozen; and some orchards were caught out and damaged.

MAXIMAC,AN OUTSIDER, CAPTURES THIRD RACE AT FAIRMOUNT

Zorro, Lavigne, Chopsticks and Dr. Glenn Win

Largest Week-Day Crowd of Meet, Estimated at 9000, Attends.

Fairmount Scratches.

FIRST RACE—Gusie P. SECOND RACE—Apres Mol. Little Harbara, Mabel Setts and Geisha Girl. THIRD RACE—None. FOURTH RACE—None On Set. FIFTH RACE—Gilding Fox, Fannie, Kinnaman, Talcum and Topanga. SIXTH RACE—Dr. Sisk and Bidder. SEVENTH RACE—Chester Rock and New Moon. Weather cloudy, track fast.

By Dent McSkimming.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff, FAIRMOUNT RACE TRACK, Nov. 5.—Doctor Glenn answered Jockey L. Neal's urging in the stretch and outlasted Chesterbrook to win the St. Louis Stewart Club Purse feature event of this afternoon's race program. Chesterbrook was making far more speed than any of the others in the last 50 yards and would have won in a few more steps. Bodyguard finished third. The race was a six furlong sprint for 3-year-olds and upward.

A crowd estimated at 9000 jammed the grandstand and betting ring. The track was fast.

Dr. Glenn needed no breaks to win. He was on top in the first furlong and he stayed there in spite of successive challenges by Bodyguard and Chesterbrook. The others were not close to the leaders at any stage after the first sixteenth.

Zorro of the Sunflower Stable won the first race of the program, a five and one-half furlong sprint. Brown Rock, getting up in the last 50 yards, nosed out Antonia for second place.

Everybody in the park was whistling "Mill Boy" as the "good thing" before the start of the race. It was hard to understand why, in view of the past performances of the Rickert brothers' horses, the boy with the bandage on his tail. Mill Boy went wild before the field reached the post and ran away. Jockey Lloyd Gaving could not check him and the horse ran completely around the track, a full mile, before he was taken in tow by the lead pony. He wasn't merely a good thing, but was "hot." The probable odds boards indicated he was a 4 to 1 choice before the betting had closed.

Jockey Sidney Hebert, who was a leader among the jockeys at Fairmount during his period of apprenticeship, came back as a winner when he piloted Lavigne to victory in the second race. Gilmore was second and Gentry, a gelded horse, third. Hebert has had great difficulty winning since he lost the advantage of five pounds accorded apprentices.

Texas with Mack Garner up, set a dizzy pace in the early running of the five and one-half furlong race, but he slowed up to a whopper after Ominous and Lavigne passed him on the far turn.

Hannibalite, coming fast in the last few furlongs, was nosed out of third place by the narrowest of margins by Gentry.

A comparative outsider up the calculations of the bettors in the third race when Maximac overhauled the flying Donna Santa at the head of the stretch to win in a driving finish. The fact that the son of Golden Maxim had run a bad ninth and an equal bad seventh and a losing sixth in his three most recent starts here resulted in a light play in the mutuels and as a result he repaid $41.70 for a $2. ticket.

Donna Santa, caught at the sixteenth pole after leading the greater part of the mile and a sixteenth, would not quit and the finish was close. Ego was third. Six Pence, a certain favorite, was never anything but an also ran. R. Costello rode the winner, which is owned by Mrs. R. S. Wiskard.

In winning the third race, Maximac lowered the track record for a mile and a sixteenth. His time was 1:47 2/5, or one-fifth of a second faster than the old mark.

E. Watson's Chopsticks, with Ganelloni in the saddle, had things pretty much to himself in winning the fourth race, at three-quarters of a mile. Keaciani was the first of the eight starters to get out in front and Chopsticks was at his heels. Trafalgar also was in favorable position, with St. Maurice fourth, as they went down the backstretch. On the far turn, Chopsticks moved around Keaciani and St. Maurice, on the rail, stepped ahead of Trafalgar. They raced next in the stretch. Trafalgar finished fourth.

Wahkeena Fractions. The start of the sixth race was delayed several minutes because of the caps cut by Wahkeena, and when the barrier went up the frisky one was out in front quickly. However, Ego had the better position on the rail and overtook Wahkeena before they had gone 300 yards. Ego was too fast for the others from that point on. Wahkeena's antics cost the race proved costly, for she lacked only another ounce of speed to win, being beaten by Ego, with Barber, a field horse, third. Vernon Wallis rode the winner, owned and trained by G. W. Smith.

The popular favorite, Harry Maxim, well hidden by C. Miller, came up from the middle of the Washington Has Won Eight Games From Tigers Since 1890.

No Evidence of Over-Confidence in Missouri Camp, Coach Says.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 5.—The University of Missouri football team, pace-setter of the Missouri Valley Conference, will have a short after noon Friday for St. Louis when the Tigers will meet the Washington University eleven on Saturday afternoon, hoping to add a fourth victory to their present list of three consecutive conference triumphs.

The Missouri football team is fully cognizant of the growth in the strength of the Washington University eleven, and Coach Gwin Henry and his men are determined not to be caught napping and overbalanced by a wave of confidence.

Aided by flood lights, the Tigers have been working after dark all week in the toughest kind of scrimmage and have come through without mishap, except for the cracking of Starbuck's ankle.

The big tackle will probably miss the Tiger game.

The Missouri football team is usually close at the finish. The Tigers in 1923, won, but must see if they can do the same.

As soon as the game is over, Coach Gwin Henry will be back to the Missouri camp.

By John H. Alexander.

Coach Higgins held his Pike football men in check with a light workout and Dan Savage put his Billikens through their stifling scrimmage of the week last night on the two university football fields.

Washington U. has been hard at all week in preparation for the Missouri Tigers who can for their annual game Saturday and the remaining afternoon sessions will be of an easy nature.

Aided by flood lights, the Billikens have been working after dark all week in the toughest kind of scrimmage and have come through without mishap, except for a crack in Starbuck's ankle.

The big tackle will probably miss the Tiger game.

There is no reason to believe that the Tigers will be running on a big point total game tomorrow between the Billikens and the Washington U. team.

Admitting that the Billikens are good for down, O'Reilly Ripperton, Creecella, Field and Judd took turns carrying the ball and Kennedy, a newcomer, looked good at halfback. As is, the Billikens had given all of their opponents close scores this year, and they are developing rapidly under their new mentor, Bob Higgins.

There is no reason for expecting a Missouri walkaway, he said, and he expects to start his strongest lineup, and believes that that lineup will be necessary.

Whatever changes he makes will rather in the interest of strengthening than weakening his team.

Coach Henry is particularly concerned over the outcome of Saturday's game because of the difficulty which the Missouri eleven has frequently encountered when the annual game was played at St.

Another scrum is carded for tonight at St. Louis U. Field, and tonight a party of about 35 players and coaches will attain Detroit. Fears that Ramonette would not play in the Detroit game were dispelled last night when it was announced that he would be down for the walkaway. The U. S. MISSOURI'S STRONGEST POSSIBLE COMBINATION TO FACE PIKERS

Higgins Gives Pikers Lighter Practice Drill

Billikens Continue Heavy Scrimmage, Varsity Showing Better.

By John H. Alexander.
Coach Higgins held his Piker football men in check with a light workout and Dan Savage put his Billikens through their stiffest scrummage of the week last night on the two university football fields. Washington U. has been hard at it all week in preparation for the game with the Tigers who call for their annual game Saturday and the remaining afternoon sessions will be of an easy nature.

Aided by flood lights the Pikers have been working after dusk all week in the toughest kind of scrummage and have come through without mishap, except for the cracking of Sturbs' ankle. The big tackle will probably miss the Tiger game.

The St. Louis U. team, which plays Detroit University at Detroit Saturday, has been the subject of a host of "hospital" stories since the Rolla game but is well on the road to recovery, judging from its performance against the freshmen last night. Minus Capt. Ramacciotti, who was taken from the stands, the backfield core through the yearlings with great ease and completed a flock of long and short passes. Kable and Fitzgerald shinning on the receiving end.

The Billikens were going so well that they took the ball over from the 30-yard line five successive times in one play, and at no time were held for downs. O'Reilly, Hippert, Crecelius, Feld and Jordan took turns carrying the ball and Kennedy, a newcomer, looked good at halfback. As is the case with most of the other backs, Kennedy lacks weight but has tremendous close scores this year, and that they are developing rapidly under their new mentor, Bob Higgins.

There is no reason to believe that the Tigers will be able to run up his point total against the Pikers, and would not "run up a score" on the St. Louis team.

Another Scrimmage is Carded for Tonight at St. Louis U. Field and Tonight a Party of about 25 Players and Coaches Will Arrive for Detroit.

Fears that Ramacciotti would not play in the Detroit game were dispelled last night when it was announced that he would make the trip. Blum, Albin and Holt, two linemen and an end, will be the only men absent. Blum being out for the season and Albin and Holt still suffering from last week's sprain.

Prospective bettors on the Washington-Missouri game are having a hard time reaching an agreement on the odds. It seems hardly possible that the Pikers, with their three conference defeats this year, can beat the Tiger machine, which seems set for another conference championship and a place in the national spotlight again. However, in the light of their 1923 victory, the Pikers are liable to do anything and very few will concede a Missouri victory by 21 points at even money.

Coach Higgins still sticks to his statement that his team has a good chance of winning. He admits the Tigers have a fine team, experienced and pretty big, but claims to have a good entry himself, though a bit green.

McBride High and Country Day Play Tomorrow at C. B. C.

McBride Day, tied with Western Military for first place in the Preparatory League, is favored to win against C. B. C. McBride High, which is tied with St. Louis E. High for second position. The game will be played at C. B. C. field.

McBride owns a victory over C. B. C. but was defeated by Western.

The McBride High team is strong but the backfield has not shown up to par on past performances, while Country Day is rated especially strong on offense.

THE DIVINE LADY

E. BARRETT BABBINGTON

"The Divine Lady" is the story, partly fiction but largely based on fact, of Lady Emma Hamilton, the Englishwoman of lowly birth who became one of the best known and most talked about women in all Europe.

CHAPTER SIXTY-ONE

WAS this happiness? Was it ever happiness? That question may well be asked but hardly answered. He trembled always on the edge of terror of one sort or another. His own child he could not see by stealth, the wife in the eyes of God, the wife of another—a man bound to him by closest, most trusting ties of friendship. He was reduced to counting on that man's death and hoping for it—"When your uncle (Sir William) dies"—then all would be well. And yet not even then. There was his wife, and she in her dumb suffering must be vilified as a hard, self-seeking woman that the beloved Emma might be justified, and his passion for her. And when all this failed to convince his own conscience, then God must be called to justify him. God in whose eyes is all. He must pray and understand what to human eyes appear hideous. He threw himself on the Divine sympathy, knowing there could be none on earth for a fall so complicated.

But amid all these griefs, there stood out stilly clear one joy unmixed and perfect—England. He had served her as none other, and the time was not past. He could serve her again—his frail breast her bulwark in the terrible days he foreseen—and before God and man that duty should be flawlessly done. There was his reparation, if such were needed. That should uplift his name to the snowy peaks of either and England's shine with it as his inspiration. He fought for her and for himself in every blow he struck for the country he loved as well as he loved her—better.

So he sailed sorrowful, but with a great hope before him, to the north. And Frances Nelson made one more a simple dignified appeal for reconciliation; but Emma was omnipotent. It was not even answered. At all events all hope was over when he returned from Copenhagen, for Emma, with his commission, had bought the charming house of Merton Place in Surrey which he was to behead for to share by a more comfortable arrangement with the Hamiltons.

Emma's way was growing clear before her, and in her own mind there was now no doubt as to the future. Sir William's life could not be long. He had told her so himself and the doctors confirmed it, and the duty, fast growing like some of pretending to place his interests before Nelson could not trouble her much longer. She would do her utmost for him while he lasted. Her natural good nature prompted her then, and she was backed by the motive of self-interest, if it needed backing, for on his will much might depend. Nelson was far from rich and the allowance he felt compelled to make his wife, sorely and openly grudged by Emma, made her the more anxious to have her own resources. With two incomes at her disposal she had now best that way she had grown terribly extravagant.

Though Merton might please Nelson and Sir William, London pleased her, and not for a moment would she bear of surrendering the house in Piccadilly and its gaities. Both there and at Merton she was surrounded by the Bohemian and masculine society which was nearly all that her reputation left her with the exception of Nelson's sisters and their families, and in such an environment all the Greville had checked in her aquatic re-appearance now and with the added force of long repression. Her easy manner was now familiarly her outbursts of temper were almost unbearable, her very kindness affronted. She prejudiced Nelson at every turn against his wife—"Tom Tit" as she nicknamed her—and she tossed over the poor woman's wardrobe which Nelson had communicated to her (all people) to pack and return. She never uttered a cruel joke about her with his sisters, who flattered her by joining in her humor. She wrote to one of them:

"Tom Tit is at Brighton. She did not come nor did he go. Jove (Nelson), for he is quite a Jove, knows better than that! It is such a pain to part with dear friends and you and I liked each other from the moment we met; our souls were congenial. Not so with Tom Tit. He is a scoundrel, a scoundrel not to be described. Tom Tit did not come to town. She offered to go down, but was refused; she only wanted to go to do mischief to all the great Jove's relations. 'Tis now shown, all her ill treatment and bad heart. Jove has found it out."

And the caravans wrote back: "I saw Tom Tit yesterday in her carriage at the next door come to take Lady Charlotte Drummond out with her. And I only seen her hands spreading about I should have known her."

Yes, it was not only Emma who had so much taste and all of it so bad. With the exception of his old father, most of the Nasons might have come under that supervisory will recall the past you will know better. My interests are always postponed to His Lordship's. Nor that I think he likes it any better than myself, but he is subservient to all her whims. Little could I foresee all this the day he first visited us in Naples! If the house were my own I might make some stand. As it is, it is not mine, and I do assure you, money flows away like water."

Greville's face was grave indeed at this admission. He had guessed it must be so, but to hear the fact was a serious matter. That ill-advised recommendation of Emma to his uncle was coming home to him now in ways he had little dreamt of in the happy freedom of getting rid of her without cost so long ago.

"I think you should remonstrate," said Sir William, weakly querulous.

I do, indeed. It pains me, my dear Hamilton. It pains me seriously to see you treated so unwarrantably.

I am all for a remonstrance."

"Will you believe it, Greville?"

says Sir William, weakly querulous.

that she laid a paper from her hand. Counts on my table yesterday, intimating that Her Ladyship's balance was now 17 shillings."

"It cannot be borne. It cannot indeed!" cries Greville, stirred into real warmth. "You must speak strongly, finally. You will be ruined, my dear Hamilton, unless you do."

"I can't speak and I won't," says Sir William. "Her temper—you knew it of old."

"Then you shall write to her. Indeed you must."

That too appeared an insuperable difficulty until Greville offered his assistance in composing a letter.

With their heads together they compounded it. Greville's mind returning by degrees to Up Park and the misfortune of ever showing compassion to undeserving strangers, especially young women of uncertain character. It was strongly borne in upon him now.

"I by no means mean to live in solitary retreat (in fact) but the tank seldom less than 12 or 14 at table and those varying continually, is coming back to what was become so irksome to me in Italy during the latter years. I have no complaint to make, but I feel that the whole attention of my wife is given to Lord N. and his interest at Merton. I well know the purity of Lord N.'s friendship, and I know how very uncomfortable it would make his Lordship if a separation should take place and am therefore determined to do all in my power to prevent such an extremity" (That will alarm her, said Greville, pausing). "We can surely put that to strongly" (which he did) "which would be detrimental to all parties, but would be more sensibly felt by our dear friend than by us. Provided our expenses in housekeeping does not increase beyond measure I am willing to go on upon our present footing. But I am fully determined not to have more of the very silly alterations that happen but too often between us and embitter the present moments. If really one cannot live comfortably together a wise and well-considered separation is preferable, but I think consider the probability of my not troubling any party now in this world, the best for us all would be to bear those ills we know of."

This was Emma's opinion on receiving the letter and discussing it with Nelson, and a little more peace was accorded the old man now so near his end. He died in April, 1802, in the presence of Emma and Nelson, and she immediately made the sacrifice of cutting off her beautiful hair and wearing it a la Tit in the fashionable morning style of the period draped with a huge black veil which served a few months later for the renewed wedding.

Tom Tit was worn out with the riot. He took an opportunity to complain to the cool Greville on meeting him in London.

"I beg of you," he said, to "the grave," he wished, in reply to Greville's look of concern.

"It is really but reasonable to hope for peace, having fagged all my life, but never a chance of it do I get."

"But surely, my dear Hamilton, you can point this out, you can insist!"

"With Emma! Indeed if you do."

They had faith in themselves they went ahead and put their project over—whole exploration of a new world, the conquest of a rival invention of a machine that revolutionized the labor and the race.

If it had not been for—in other words, the egotists—where would be the airplane, the radio, and even the American soda? If you honestly believe better idea than the next person, brain more capable invention, and execution—the chances are all in your favor is so deadly to personal achievement as the fear of some of the necessary qualities or talents or information might carry you through; nothing is so certain of bringing you belief, not only that you can do the job ahead of you, but do it just a little bit better than anyone else!

The sense of superiority gives you the power to go ahead, where others lose courage the way. The knowledge that you can deliver the good news if necessary—will make failure absolutely impossible.

Look around your business. Who are the men and women at the top?

Look at the theatricals—headliners?

Look at the book columns the classics of yesterday, and those that will be tomorrow?

The superiority sense backed up by genuine ability is worth about as much without a pair of oars. Fit yourself with all mental tools for work in life, whatever it may be, and then be ready for your place.

REAL FOLKS AT HOME—THE STEEPLE JACK

THE SYSTEM.

H. I like to play the ponies right or wrong. For racing I'm particularly strong. It's a worthy institution so, I made a "contribution". Of a hundred bucks to help the game along.

Oh, I never would begrudge a little jack. To see the ponies run around the track; Your money, you contribute, for the system to distribute. And, the object is to try and get it back.

Oh, you put your contribution in a pot. To go upon an elongated shot; You may have a chance to get it, though of course you never bet it—

It's a clever little system, is it not? QUITE SO.

If you make a "contribution" in a certain race but fail to choose the right horse it might be called contributory negligence.

Looks like John Bull is trying to upstage Uncle Sam. Next thing he'll be insisting on his going around to the back door with the rest of tradesmen when he calls to collect that little account.

GOOD WORK.

See where the Democrats and Republicans are going to get together on a tax reduction bill. They've come to the conclusion that there is glory enough for us all as the feller says.

After the bootleggers got through fixing up the Jack Daniel for the market there was more Jack than Daniel in it.

See where the tax collector charges us with a Chrysler roadster. We thank him for the compliment but deny the soft impeachment.

THE MILKY WAY.

H. I diddle the cat and the fiddle. Jack Daniel in court will soon shine.

The bootleggers laughed to see the graft

And the cow kicked over the moon-shine.

A Birdie Two.

J. Bamford, an English professional, in playing an approach shot found that his ball had killed two water wagtails. Making him all square with the guy who killed two birds with one stone.

One of the birds was found to have been literally cut in two, thereby halving the hole.

MAXIMUM TAX
ON INHERITANCES
CUT TO 40 PCT.

Twenty-Five Per Cent Exemption Allowed on Earned Incomes Will Apply Up to $20,000.

PUBLICITY CLAUSE
CHANGE APPROVED

House Committee, Framing Revenue Bill, Decides Not to Abandon Capital Stock Levy.

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Reduction of the inheritance tax rate and repeal of the gift tax and publicity of income tax returns were voted today by the House Ways and Means Committee in its consideration of a new revenue bill.

The maximum inheritance tax was cut from 40 per cent to 25 per cent.

The committee also decided to increase from 25 to 80 per cent the credit allowed in payment of the federal inheritance tax for the amounts paid on similar state levies.

While deciding to prohibit further publication of income tax payments by individuals, the committee voted to retain provisions of the present law authorizing publication of the names and addresses of income taxpayers, and opening the returns to inspection by the House Ways and Means Committee, Senate Finance Committee or any special committee appointed by Congress for that purpose.

The limit on which the 25 per cent deduction for earned income may be made by taxpayers was increased by the committee from incomes of $10,000 to incomes of $20,000.

The committee rejected proposals to repeal the capital stock tax and modify the corporation levy of 12 1/2 per cent.

Suggestions that more corporations be allowed to file as partners and that the partners in some instances allow them to file returns as corporations were turned over to a subcommittee.

Saving of $7,000,000.

By extending the limit to which the earned income credit may be applied it was estimated taxpayers would be saved $7,000,000 annually.

The committee voted also to make the graduated surtax rates begin at one per cent on the amount of income in excess of $20,000.

Under revised estimates Chairman Green figured that the changes so far voted by the committee would result in a loss of revenue aggregating $190,000,000 annually.

The committee yesterday voted a reduction in the maximum surtax rate from 40 to 25 per cent, and down the normal rates, and increased the personal exemption.

By increasing the exemptions from $1,000 to $1,500 for single persons and from $2,500 to $3,500 for married persons the committee reduced more than 1,000,000 persons from the necessity of paying any income tax, as well as reducing the burden of all others on the federal rolls.

New Normal Rates.

The new normal rates voted by the committee would reduce from one cent to 1 1/2 per cent the first $4,000 of taxable income, cut from 4 per cent to 2 per cent the rate on the next $4,000, and from 5 per cent to 4 per cent applying on taxable income in excess of $8,000.

The following table shows the effect of the new rates on incomes married new with children under $10,000.
